

THE ALUMNAE NEWS

WOMAN'S COLLEGE OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

Alumnae Now Enrolled in the Armed Forces of Our Country, or in Overseas Service

(As Reported to the Alumnae Office)

WAVES

Hilda G. Brady '40
Judith G. Bullock '41
Josephine Butler '37
Jennie Elizabeth Cecil '41
Betty C. Clatts '40
Rosemary Cross '41
Edna E. Elmore, class of '31
Marion W. Fisher '39
Laura Gamble '36
Margaret Griffin '42

Frances Goverman '41
Frances H. Hall '40
Grace Harding '40
Ruth House '41
Margaret Idol '39
Sara C. Keller '40
Marjorie Lee Coffield '37
Shirley Melchor '37
E. Kathryne Miller '35

Barbara H. Moore '39
Leah Moseley '41
Louise Nash Dorsett '34
Inez Pauline Spainhour Corbit '30
Gladys Rogers '39
Sidney Anne Tooley '42
Betsy Williams '37
Mary Estelle Winston, Com. '38
Blanche Woolard '42

WAACS

Virginia Christine Anthony, class of '49
Elizabeth Ashley Gilster '37
Margaret A. Bacchus '32
Westray Battle Boyce, Com. '19
Margaret Lee Brown, Com. '49
Mildred Inez Caroon '40
Geraldine Cox '39
Gertrude Edith Crabtree '40
Jean Marie Dulin, class of '42

Kathryn N. Folger, class of '33
Margaret C. Gray, class of '43
Dorothy S. Hammock, Com. '32
Eleanor Anne Hammond, class of '36
Jessie Scott Hewitt, Com. '32
Mary Dalice Howard '31
Margaret L. Huff '40
Elizabeth L. Peurifoy, Com. '37
Virginia M. Patterson, class of '42

Kathryn J. Royster '35
Melba Virginia Shafer '40
Elizabeth Chappell Shelton, class of '29
Mary E. Stanton '39
Virginia M. St. Peter, class of '43
Ruby E. Stroup, Com. '38
Linda Bailey Watson '33
Patricia Wilcox, class of '37
Helen Mae Williams '38
Jean C. Yates '43

OVERSEAS

Daphne Doster '27, Nurse, Johns Hopkins General Hospital Unit 18
Margaret Green, class of '28, American Red Cross Recreational Unit
Helen Felder '30, American Red Cross Recreational Unit
Mary Louise Horney '36, American Red Cross Recreational Unit
Sibyl Jennings Vorheis '33, Chief Physiotherapist, Queen's Hospital, Honolulu
Mary Webb Nicholson, class of 1928, Royal Air Force (British)

WOMEN OF THE FACULTY

WAVES

Dr. Virginia Farinholt (Romance Languages)
Miss Alice Arnett Peterson (Home Economics)
Miss Miriam Sheldon (Physical Education)

WAACS

Miss Ruth Shaver (Romance Languages)

FEBRUARY 1943

THE ALUMNAE NEWS

Published Four Times a Year: July, November, February and April, by the Alumnae and Former Students Association, Incorporated, of the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro

MEMBER OF AMERICAN ALUMNI COUNCIL

CLARA BOOTH BYRD, Editor

OFFICERS AND BOARD MEMBERS

President: LULA MARTIN McIVER DICKINSON (MRS. JOHN)

Vice President: JULIA ROSS LAMBERT (MRS. W. L.)

Honorary President: LAURA COIT

Executive Secretary: CLARA B. BYRD

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Moffite Sinclair Henderson (Mrs. J. L.), Caroline Goforth Hogue (Mrs. Richard), Carrie Tabor Stevens (Mrs. C. E.), Nettie Parker With (Mrs. Albert), Ethel Wells Moore (Mrs. Floyd), Emily Austin, Anne Albright, Janet Weil Bluthenthal (Mrs. Herbert), Gertrude Carraway, Sadie McBrayer McCain (Mrs. P. P.)

Vol. XXXI

FEBRUARY, 1943

No. 3

CONTENTS

	PAGE
UP AND DOWN THE AVENUE	1
WOMEN SERVE BY SAVING By Harriet Elliott	2
DR. FOUST'S GIFT OF WAR BONDS TO THE COLLEGE	3
WHAT THE WAVES ARE SAYING AND DOING By Ensign Barbara Moore '39	3
IMPORTANT NOTICE By Lula Martin Dickinson	4
A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A WAAC By Patricia Stirling	5
MINNIE McIVER BROWN By Blanche L. Smith	6
GIFTS TO ALUMNAE HOUSE	7
THE GRADUATE CENTER	7
THE ALUMNAL COMMITTEE ON UNDERGRADUATE RELATIONS	8
NEWS FROM THE ALUMNAE	9
MARRIAGES	17
NECROLOGY	20

Patronize Our Advertisers

	Page
Montaldo's	17
Viets	18
Woolworth's	19
Montgomery Ward	19
Walton's Shoe Shop	19
Franklin Studios—Photography	19
Sancton & Dickerson— Jewelers and Optometrists	20
Sears Roebuck & Co.	20
Yellow Taxi Co.	20
Charles Stores	20
Greensboro Nehi Bottling Co.— Royal Crown Cola	21
The Grill—Eats	21
Dick's Laundry Co.	21
Phil R. Carlton, Inc.— Real Estate, Insurance, etc.	21
Manuel's Restaurant	21
Silver's—5c-10c-15c-20c	21
Columbia Laundry	21
Union Bus Station	21
Blue Bird Taxi	21
Sills—Shoes	21
Ellis Stone & Co.—Ladies' Wear	21
E. A. Woodell—Printing	21
The Mecca—Restaurant	21
Greensboro Bowling Center	21
Belk's Department Store	Back Cover
Kearns Paint Co.	Back Cover
Jos. J. Stone & Co.—Printing	Back Cover
Mock, Judson, Voehringer— Hosiery	Back Cover

UP AND DOWN THE AVENUE

Almost every day information comes to the Alumnae Office that Woman's College alumnae have enlisted in one branch or another of the Armed Forces, or in the work of the Overseas Red Cross. The names which have been reported up to the first of February are published on the front cover of this number of The Alumnae News. This College and the Alumnae Association recognize with pride and gratitude the value of the contribution which these alumnae are making to their country, and our affectionate interest is with them. The Alumnae News invites and urges that alumnae who are able to add other names to this roll will do so. Every effort is being made to preserve in permanent record the war services of the alumnae of this College.

The Woman's College of the University of North Carolina is this year the second largest college for women in the country, and the largest college where the majority of the students live in residence halls. The enrollment is 2247. Hunter College, New York City, is the only woman's college the enrollment of which exceeds the enrollment here. But Hunter is a college for day students. The large majority of students here come from North Carolina homes, the number of out-of-state students being limited. Of the present enrollment, approximately 302 students reside in other states. Even so, twenty-eight states and four foreign countries are represented. The following counties have the largest number of representatives in the student body: Guilford 363; Mecklenburg 82; Forsyth 80; Wake 58; Rowan 53; Wayne 43.

Miss Mildred Newton, Secretary of Admissions, says that many of the students from other states have some connection with North Carolina. One or both parents may have lived here at one time. A relative may have received his college education in the state. The family may have business connections here. It is hard to rub the tar entirely off the heels of a native born son!

Dean W. C. Jackson is serving this year as Director of the Citizens Service Corps of Guilford County.

Dr. Fred W. Morrison, former member of the faculty in the Department of Education, now a law partner of former Governor O. Max Gardner in Washington, has established a scholarship at Woman's College as a memorial to his mother. The scholarship will bear her name—the Palmyra Pharr Scholarship. Dr. Morrison's initial gift is $2,500.

The summer school will open this year on June 9, two days after commencement closes, and will continue six weeks. Emphasis will be placed on the sciences, mathematics, and business education.

The Sixth International Relations Institute will be held for the second time on this campus, from June 18-26.

The Fourth Girls' State has been scheduled for June 13-18.

Other conferences are pending.

Two emergency war training courses are being provided at this College for the people of Greensboro, under the general direction of the United States Office of Education—Fabrics Testing, Industrial Chemistry. Through the University at Chapel Hill a third emergency course is being offered in cost accounting. There is no charge for these courses. The Extension Department of this College is offering courses in Spanish and in Current Discussion, for which there is an enrollment fee.

WOMAN'S HALL

KIRKLAND HALL

ANNA HOWARD SHAW HALL

Women Serve By Saving

by Harriet Elliott

Dean of Women, Woman's College and Director, Women's Section U. S. War Savings Staff

Wherever I go these busy days—and my work takes me many places—somebody is sure to ask me these two questions: "Just exactly what are you doing in Washington?" and "Why in the world did you leave Woman's College again?"

I usually give one reply to the two questions. It is something like this:

"I would never have left the College, even temporarily as I have, had it not been that I felt it was my duty to accept the responsibility offered me to participate in one of our country's most urgent and most democratic war efforts—the sale of War Bonds and Stamps."

American men are leaving their happy American homes in order that they may help keep these American homes happy—and free. It pleases me to think that in my way I am doing somewhat the same thing. I have left a happy college campus to take part in a work that will help keep that college campus, and every one in America, happy—and free.

The Woman's College—faculty, students, and alumnae—will be the first to understand that reasoning; for our motto is that simple, sturdy word, "Service".

More formally, I am Director of the Women's Section of the United States War Savings Staff. Our headquarters are in the Treasury at Washington. My staff is small. It includes Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., able wife of the Secretary of the Treasury. She does a volunteer, but very vigorous job, day in, day out. Dr. Mabelle Blake, a former professor of Psychology, is in charge of the work with women's organizations and with women's colleges. Mrs. John Herrick, a former newspaperwoman, is a special assistant; and Miss Helen Dallas, also a writer, supervises the "materials" unit. There are about a dozen other women in headquarters. Some are volunteers; some are professional. All are doing their jobs with efficiency and enthusiasm. But the major work is done, as it should be, in the field. For we want our War Savings program to touch, directly, every one of the nation's 43 million women, and through them, every one whom they influence.

We have divided the country into six regions, with a woman in charge of each. Every state is organized, with a woman chairman, and many local sub-divisions. The women of North Carolina should be extremely proud of Mrs. Carl Bishopric, who, as state chairman, is doing a characteristically thorough and splendid piece of work.

But the important, democratic feature of the entire program is this: More than 270,000 volunteers are now actively at work in War Savings organizations in every part of the country. Just how many of these workers are women I don't know; but I do know that many of them are women.

I do know, too, that of the fifty million people in the United States who are buying War Savings Bonds, a great number are women. And I am confident that behind the masculine purchase of many a bond stands a woman's influence. On the fighting front we have the woman behind the gun. On the home front we have the woman behind the man behind the bond.

We have an inspiring example of this right on our campus. Our students, more than 2,000 determined and devoted young women, have a two-fold project: to invest in $25,000 worth of War Savings Bonds which, in time, will send one bomber into the fight; and which, later, will contribute toward the new chapel to be erected on the campus. This is an unusual combination. In peace-time it might seem a paradox. But this is war-time.

Their money will do double duty. First, in this crisis, it will provide an implement of war that may, please God, help shorten the war. Second, in the peace that will come tomorrow, this money will help provide, on the campus, a symbol for all time of their loyalty to God and to country. To do this, the students are committing themselves to the idea of the new prestige. The old prestige was based on possession, on having. This new prestige is based on patriotism, or doing without.

For many college women, and particularly for the women of our College, this new prestige is really an old and established idea of values. For half a century, many students at Woman's College have lived carefully, but cheerfully. They have gone without some of the silken superficialities of life in order to have some of the homespun realities—such as a good education, and a training for "Service." These women, and their sisters all over the country, who are buying War Savings Bonds, and encouraging others to buy them, may not be in uniform. But they are good soldiers.

We of the Women's Section of the United States War Savings Staff salute them.

Dr. Foust's Gift of War Bonds to the College

One of the most generous and highly appreciated gifts made to the College in honor of the fiftieth anniversary, was a gift of War Bonds, amounting to $2,000, made by Dr. J. I. Foust, president emeritus. This item adds an appreciable sum to the list of anniversary donations published in the last number of The Alumnae News.

Dr. Jackson is now offering the alumnae an opportunity to contribute War Bonds and Stamps to a fund for the erection of a chapel on the campus. Can we find within the next few weeks 25 alumnae who will duplicate Dr. Foust's gift of $2,000? Without doubt we can at least find 2,000 alumnae who will contribute $25. The result in dollars would be the same.

What the Waves Are Saying and Doing

by Ensign Barbara Moore '39

One of the Women's College U. N. C. Waves

The Women's Reserve of the United States Naval Reserve, commonly called the WAVES, was created by congressional enactment on July 30, 1942. The WAVES is a short title for "Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service."

Officers of the Women's Reserve may exercise command only over members of the Women's Reserve. Members of the Women's Reserve, under the limits of the present law, may serve only on shore stations within the continental limits of the United States.

The stated purpose of the Women's Reserve is to train women to relieve officers and men now on duty in shore establishments, and thus release naval men for duty at sea. Members of the Women's Reserve may not be used to replace civil service employees.

Members of the Women's Reserve are designated in a way similar to the manner in which men in the Naval Reserve are designated. For example, an officer of the Women's Reserve would properly be "Lieut. (j.g.) Jane F. Doe, W-V(S), USNR," which translated fully would be Lieutenant (junior grade) Jane F. Doe, Woman Volunteer (Special Service), United States Naval Reserve.

The proper title for the officer training school at Northampton, as well as the officer training unit at Mount Holyoke College, is "Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School (WR)."

The full course at the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School (WR), Northampton and Mount Holyoke, covers two or three months, the first month of which is devoted to naval indoctrination. The school is exclusively an officer-training school.

All women ordered to the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School (WR) enter as Apprentice Seamen, V-9. Following a month of general indoctrination, they are divided into two groups as Reserve Midshipmen, the smaller group taking an additional month of advanced indoctrination; the larger group, two months of special duty.

Women accepted for officer's training must be between 20 and 50 years of age. Those between 35 and 50 will be selected only if they have special qualifications. When reserve midshipmen are graduated, they receive commissions as Ensigns, W-V(S), USNR, or as Lieutenants (j.g.), W-V(S), USNR.

The high-spirited purpose behind the training program of the WAVES is the production of "properly trained women" who will be able to perform assigned naval duties as well as the men whom they will relieve.

The commanding officer of the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School (WR) is Captain Herbert W. Underwood, USN (ret.). The executive officer of the school is Lieutenant Commander William F. Bull, USNR. The senior officer (WR) is Lieutenant Elizabeth Bolard Crandall, USNR; the head of the instruction department, Lieutenant Commander Charles H. Morgan, USNR; the First Lieutenant, Lieutenant Commander James A. Moss, USNR.

Organization of the training program at the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School (WR) is patterned after that of the United States Naval Training School (V-7, indoctrination) at the University of Notre Dame, and the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School on the USS Prairie State, and conforms to the organization of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland.

The general policy of the school is to relieve male officers wherever practicable as soon as properly trained officers of the Women's Reserve are available.

Women officers wear the prescribed uniform at all times, except while in the home when less than three guests are present, or during athletic recreation.

The military organization at the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School (WR) consists of a regiment of three battalions: the Hotel Battalion, made up of all seamen or midshipmen quartered at the Northampton Hotel; the Campus Battalion, consisting of all seamen or midshipmen quartered in the campus dormitories at Smith College; and the Holyoke Battalion, consisting of all seamen or midshipmen in Rockefeller Hall at Mount Holyoke College.

Reveille each day is at 6:15 a.m., and taps at ten. The daily schedule includes five recitation periods, two study periods, drill, short athletic recreation, and occasional evening lectures. The students march to meals and to classes.

Captain's inspection is held each Saturday morning. Reveille on Sunday morning is at 7:35. Shore leave is granted from noon Saturday to 7:30 Sunday night.

The ratings for enlisted personnel are the same as those of the regular navy, such as "Yeoman," "Storekeeper," "Radioman." Feminine forms of naval ratings are unauthorized and incorrect. There is no such person in the Women's Reserve as a "Yeomanette."

There are two divisions of instruction at the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School (WR)—one for indoctrination, and the other for advanced study. For each subject taught, a committee is organized. The head of the committee is the officer immediately in charge of that subject.

The objective of the indoctrination program is to provide the student with a general knowledge of the organization, personnel, administration, and operation of the Navy, as well as of naval etiquette, customs, traditions and usages.

At the Naval Reserve Midshipmen's School (WR), the running capacity is 1200 officer candidates, 850 at Northampton, and 350 at the Mount Holyoke unit.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Dear Alumnae:

Since Christmas your officers had planned to hold a Mid-Winter Business Meeting on Saturday, February 13. We deliberately delayed issuing a call for the meeting until the Government policy with respect to travel was more clearly developed.

I received on January 25 a notification from Mr. Theo. S. Johnson, State Director, O.P.A., to the effect that, "Recent ruling does not permit driving to meetings of type indicated your telegram," viz., the Mid-Winter Business Meeting of our Association. This ruling, plus the Government's request for us to limit travel by other modes of transportation, obviously made a full and representative meeting impossible. Even most of the Guilford County members would have found it difficult, if not impossible, to attend.

Consequently it seemed necessary to give up our plans for the Mid-Winter Business Meeting this year. This we did with much regret.

The Nominating Committee, with Miss Jane Summerell, Chairman, will mail its ballot to each paid-up member "not later than one month before the Annual Commencement Meeting of the Association." Nominations may be mailed to Miss Summerell, at Woman's College of U.N.C., before March 15, if these nominations "are backed by the signatures of at least twelve paid-up members of the Association." These names will be added to the slate of at least two nominees for each office proposed by the Nominating Committee.

Those officers to be elected in 1943 are:

President	2 years
First Vice President	1 year
Second Vice President	2 years
Recording Secretary	2 years
One Member of Board	1 year
One Member of Board	2 years
One Member of Board to be elected by present Senior Class.

LULA MARTIN DICKINSON,
President of the Alumnae
Association.

The First Group of Students to Receive Their M.S. Degree in Home Economics in Person at Woman's College on Commencement Day June 8.

Reading from left to right: Cleo Brendle, teacher of home economics in the Greensboro High School; Evelyn Howell, instructor in the Department of Home Economics, Woman's College, U. N. C.; Madge Rhyne, head of the Department of Home Economics, Brevard College; Catherine Turner, assistant dietitian and instructor in Home Economics, Mary Washington College; Thelma (Hawkins) Harrill, teacher of home economics in the Seventy-First School, Cumberland County.

The degree was conferred by the Graduate School of the University of North Carolina. Other master's degrees in home economics have been previously conferred, but heretofore "in absentia." Miss Howell, Miss Rhyne, and Mrs. Harrill took their bachelor's degree in home economics from Woman's College.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF A WAAC

by Patricia Stribling, Public Relations Officer

Women's Army Auxiliary Corps Training Center
Fort Des Moines, Iowa

Long before dawn the bugle and the shrill whistle of the first sergeant awaken the women in the squad rooms at Fort Des Moines. Fifteen minutes later, at 6:30 a.m., reveille is blown and a cannon shot reverberates across the post. Promptly, members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps in basic training pour forth from the barracks to stand reveille and report. During this season reveille is a pre-dawn event.

The next thing on the schedule is mess call. After breakfast, beds are made and the barracks are mopped and swept and dusted. At five of eight, assembly is called by the bugler, and the women soldiers "fall in" for infantry drill. Following the drill period, classes are on the schedule. These include: map reading, interior guard duty, defense against air attack, defense against chemical attack, WAAC regulations, punitive articles of war, military customs and courtesies, organization of the Army, military sanitation, first aid and personal hygiene, and other subjects. Dinner is at noon, followed by mail call, which is a welcome interlude. After dinner, classes continue until 4:30, and are concluded with a period of physical training.

At 5:00 o'clock, the flag-lowering ceremony of Retreat is sounded, and all over the post, wherever they may be, WAACs stand at attention, paying homage to the flag of the country they are serving. Soon after Retreat, the welcome call of mess is heard again.

No further duties are expected of these Auxiliaries in the evening save those who are detailed to kitchen police or to act as "charge of quarters." At 9:30 lights out is sounded, and at 10:45 comes the final call to quarters, and bed-check is conducted. When the last notes of taps die away at eleven o'clock, the day is over for the women of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, and the barracks are quiet with well-earned sleep.

MYRTLE PADGETT '43 does a bit of war work

MINNIE McIVER BROWN

The First Woman to Serve on the Board of Trustees of this College

by BLANCHE L. SMITH

In a speech made a few years ago at Wallace, North Carolina, Eleanor Roosevelt declared that the really important people of the world are not always those who are most conspicuous, or who make the daily headlines. Rather, they are often the men and women in a community who quietly give generously of their time and talents to the development of their communities—spiritually, educationally, and socially; and these are also the happiest people.

Such an individual is Minnie McIver Brown, of Chadbourne, the first woman to be appointed to serve as a member of the Board of Trustees of this College.

Minnie McIver was born and reared in the old Buffalo Presbyterian Church community, near Sanford—the daughter of Archibald Dalrymple and Augusta Chandler Melver. The Scotch Presbyterians of this community believed with their sturdy forbears that food for the mind and spirit was no less important than food for the body. At great sacrifice on the part of many during the lean years which followed the war between the states, excellent private schools flourished in this section, and the Buffalo Church community became the center of culture and education for several surrounding counties. Minnie McIver was a product of these schools.

Following private school, Mrs. Brown was a student for a year at Cox College in Georgia. Afterwards, she taught music and dramatics at Robeson Institute, in Lumberton. In 1895, she came to the then State Normal and Industrial School, in Greensboro, which had recently been founded by her kinsman, Dr. Charles D. McIver. To anyone who knew the zeal and purpose of this man, it would hardly be necessary to add that Minnie McIver taught school again—in the high schools of North Carolina.

While teaching in Whiteville, she met State Senator Joseph A. Brown, to whom she was married in 1898. Almost immediately thereafter, Mrs.

Brown began a career of community service, frequently working in close collaboration with her already distinguished husband, whose interest in humanity and public service had challenged her imagination and made an appeal to her responsive mind and spirit.

The interest which this dynamic young couple felt in people and their problems; in education, in religion, politics, soon brought into their home persons of high and low degree, the lettered and the unlettered—all of whom received a warm welcome, and usually a hearty meal as well! Mrs. Brown never knew when her unpredictable husband would bring to dinner a pair of superior court judges, a governor, or four or five dirt farmers. She early learned to keep a well-stocked larder and a dauntless spirit—even in the midst of spring house cleaning.

In 1901 she organized the first literary club in Columbus County. She has been an active clubwoman ever since. While serving as chairman of music of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, she pleaded for music to be included in the curriculum of the public schools. While serving as a district president of the federation, Mrs. Brown used her talents and energies to promote the interest of clubwomen in social service. Many persons in North Carolina today recognize the fact that it was through the efforts and leadership of women of her type that the State of North Carolina established and developed one of the strongest departments of public welfare in the South.

In 1925 Governor McLean appointed Mrs. Brown to serve as a member of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare. She served on this board for twelve years, and during this time her keen intellect, sound judgment, and practical approach to social problems proved a valuable asset to the state.

During Governor McLean's administration, she also served as a member of the State Education Commission, the purpose of which was to survey and report on the public school system of the state; to find the true facts regarding the needs of the system; and to make those facts the basis of its recommendations to the General Assembly. She was among those members who submitted a minority report, which, among other points, insisted upon recommending unequivocally the adoption, by constitutional amendment, of a uniform eight months school term, and a minimum equalization fund of five million dollars for its support.

For the year 1910-11, Mrs. Brown was vice president of the Alumnae Association of her Alma Mater, and at commencement gave the address to the alumnae on "The Educated Woman's Contribution to the Service of the State." In this address, Mrs. Brown said: "Social service is the duty of all. Education makes this service intelligent and fruitful. Without service, education defeats its own ends." As an example of this type of service, to which she challenged the efforts of all alumnae, Mrs. Brown urged the inauguration of an active campaign for regular and compulsory school medical examination and treatment, logically pointing out the social advantages of such a policy.

For several years, the State Federation of Women's Clubs had been urging the appointment of a representative woman on the Board of Trustees of the state's school for the education of young women. In 1917 Governor Bickett appointed Minnie McIver Brown to serve on this board—the school had now become the State Normal and Industrial College. She was soon elected to membership on the Executive Committee of this board, a position she continued to occupy during the years following when the college was known as the North Carolina College for Women—in fact, until 1931, when, through the Act of Consolidation, the College became the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. Mrs. Brown was retained as a member of the consolidated board, and in this capacity, still serves the whole University.

In 1917 Mrs. Brown organized the Woman's Council of Defense in Columbus County, and served as chairman of the council throughout World War I.

That the philosophy of service has always been a deep conviction with Mrs. Brown, is evidenced by the varied activities of her career. They include active membership in civic, patriotic, and religious organizations. Through the little Presbyterian Church in Chadburn, Mrs. Brown has served her own community faithfully and well as Sunday school teacher, organist, and lay worker. She has also served the Wilmington Presbyterian Auxiliary as president, and while historian of this group, wrote a published history of the organization—the second oldest union of organized women's work in the Southern Presbyterian Church. Of this book the publisher wrote: "I have given this work of yours a heart interest because there is behind all the written lines great spiritual beauty. The little story is an epic."

It has been said that we cannot evaluate present day conditions and needs without a basic knowledge of the past events which led us to the present. Mrs. Brown's keen interest in history, and especially in the early and frequently unrecorded history of the state, has led her to a number of half-forgotten shrines in eastern North Carolina. Several state papers have published feature articles written by her about these interesting places and people.

Mrs. Brown recently served as Regent of the General Robert Howe

Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. During her administration this chapter erected two historical highway markers in Columbus County, and won state and national prizes for the organization of Junior American Citizens Clubs in white and negro schools.

The work of the U.D.C. also claims her attention.

Minnie McIver Brown is admired and respected by many friends and acquaintances for her intellectual attainments, her civic contributions, her varied talents, her gracious manner and personal charm. But it is for herself that she is loved by her fellow townspeople and friends in Columbus County. "Miss Minnie," as she is affectionately known to a host of friends, is never too busy or too much absorbed in her own interests to lay them aside graciously and generously in response to the needs of others—whether it be to take the sick child of a colored friend to the hospital in her Ford, or to assist an ambitious young boy or girl in preparing a high school essay or a club paper. Her intimate friends know that many persons, perplexed by the problems of life, or discouraged by life's vicissitudes, go to her for advice, guidance, encouragement and intelligent sympathy. There is something contagious in her boundless faith in God and in the essential goodness of human nature; something contagious also in her unquenchable zest for life, which translates itself into a spontaneous gaiety, and an active interest in whatever concerns humanity.

Last, but not least, as she would be among the first to affirm, she has a charming daughter and three fine grandsons.

Gifts to Alumnae House

The following gifts to Alumnae House are acknowledged with appreciation:

BOOKS

Music in the Public Schools. By Hattie S. Parrott, and Grace VanDyke More, professor of Public School Music, Woman's College, U. N. C. Gift of Miss Parrott.

A Report on Special Education. By Annie Moore Cherry. Gift of Miss Cherry.

SPECIAL ITEM

Invitation from Faculty and Trustees to the Fiftieth Anniversary, attractively framed. Gift of Margaret K. and E. Louise Gilbert.

The Graduate Center

The Graduate Center of the University of North Carolina at Woman's College has general supervision of graduate work in Business Education, Home Economics, and Elementary Education. The graduate committee is composed of Dr. Franklin D. McNutt, head of the Department of Education, chairman; Miss Margaret Edwards and Dr. McKee Fisk, heads respectively of the two other departments concerned—Home Economics and Business Education and Secretarial Science; Dr. B. B. Kendrick, head of the Department of History, and Miss Grace VanDyke More, of the Department of Music.

Graduate work in Home Economics and Business Education has been carried on for some time. Last fall, beginning on a quarter basis, the Department of Education offered ten graduate courses on Saturday morning to in-service teachers. Eighty-five graduate students, men and women, enrolled in these courses. On February 13, the second quarter of graduate work in Elementary Education began and will continue for 15 weeks.

Anne Holdford Now Field Representative for the New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Anne Holdford, class of 1918, is this year Field Representative for the Department of Education in the State of New Jersey. She is working with the program on Child Care, a plan designed to benefit children whose mothers are working—particularly mothers who are engaged in war work. Anne says that her days are interesting and challenging, and she is grateful for the opportunity of doing her bit in this world crisis.

From supervisor of elementary schools in North Carolina, Anne joined the staff of the Department of Education of New York State, with headquarters at Albany. Along the way she did graduate work at Teachers College, Columbia University, leading toward the degree of Doctor of Education. Last year she was assistant in the Department of Elementary Education at Teachers College, at the same time continuing her own courses of study. Last fall she returned to Teachers College to finish her project—the only thing to be done before the degree is actually conferred. But in the midst of those final days, she was called into the service.

For the past three summers, Anne has directed the Progressive Education Workshop at Alabama College, Montevallo, Ala.

The Alumnae Committee on Undergraduate Relations

The Alumnae Committee on Undergraduate Relations, of which Margaret Moser is chairman, adopted a four-point program this year: (1) A tea in Alumnae House for the student campus leaders—that is, officers of all student organizations; (2) a program in chapel by alumnae for all students; (3) the inauguration of Granddaughters' Day—preferably on Sunday, in connection with a University Sermon, with the alumnae mothers as additional honor guests; (4) the usual brief meeting with the Senior Class in Alumnae House after the class withdraws from last mass meeting, when the work of the Alumnae Association is presented to them.

The tea for campus leaders took place on Friday afternoon, November 20, in Alumnae House, with the Committee on Undergraduate Relations as sponsoring hostess. Two things delighted the committee—the number of students who came, and their fine response to the idea of working together, as students and alumnae, in a spirit of mutual helpfulness.

Members of the committee present in addition to the chairman were: Annie Moring Alexander, Asheboro; Hattie S. Parrott, Raleigh; Minnie L. Jamison, Nell Craig, May Lattimore Adams, and Clara B. Byrd, Alumnae Secretary, College. To our real regret, three members of the committee were unable to be present: Marjorie Mendenhall Applewhite, who was on her honeymoon; Sadie McBrayer McCain, last year president of the Alumnae Association, and Rose Wilson, last year vice president of Student Government Association, who is doing secretarial work at the United States Naval Air Station, Elizabeth City.

Miss Moser and Miss Byrd welcomed the guests at the door. Miss Jamison and Miss Parrott poured tea; Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Adams, and Miss Craig served. Everybody talked—and nearly everybody at the same time!

During a final half hour, we seated ourselves around the chairman in circles—literally, as she presided over an informal conference. Dr. Jackson was with us, and proved himself again the ever ready and gracious speaker. Each member of the committee had a word to say—fornothing about herself, upon the express command of the chairman. Each student was also introduced, and spoke for a half minute on the same subject—herself, and gave the name of the organization she was representing.

Mary Jo Rendleman, president of Student Government Association, spoke more at length, by previous invitation. She expressed genuine approval of the plan which had been inaugurated on this occasion. In answer to the question, "What can the alumnae do to be of help to the students?" she told us about the plans of the students to purchase a tank for the Federal Government, and also about their plans to make a substantial contribution to the Chapel Fund. She thought that the alumnae could help with these two projects.

The Alumnae Committee on Undergraduate Relations happily and enthusiastically agreed that the alumnae could, and they were sure would, assist the students with these undertakings. After the conference had been adjourned, the girls lingered, talking informally with the members of the alumnae committee, and expressing their appreciation of the occasion.

Before finally separating, the committee itself had a meeting in the library of Alumnae House. Formal resolutions were passed endorsing the plans and efforts of the students in regard to the tank and the Chapel Fund, and pledging the best efforts of the committee to interest the alumnae at large in contributing especially to the Chapel Fund.

Granddaughters' Day was later scheduled for Sunday, February 14, when Sherwood Eddy would preach the University Sermon in Aycock. The mothers of the granddaughters were to be invited to spend this day on the campus, and to arrive in time to attend the sermon with their daughters, occupying especially reserved seats. The granddaughters and their mothers were to be guests at a special luncheon in North Dining Hall, and they were to be guests again at a musical and tea in the afternoon in Alumnae House.

When the Federal Government made the ruling with regard to pleasure driving, the committee was obliged, regretfully, to relinquish its plans to include the mothers. The original program for the day was abbreviated to the afternoon musical and tea for the granddaughters.

Plans are also under way for the alumnae chapel program, in Aycock, on April 20.

One thing of lively and speculative interest to the Committee on Undergraduate Relations themselves is this—that since the organization of the committee, last summer, two of its members have been married—the then Marjorie Mendenhall and May Lattimore!

CAMPUS SCENE

News from the Alumnae

1896

Hats off to Janet (Tatem) Thompson and her son, Lieutenant Colonel Tazewell F. Thompson! Colonel Thompson was one of the honor guests at a reception in Buckingham Palace last Thanksgiving Day. He represented his Brigade Commander, Brigadier General William S. Sands. Earlier in the day he was one of the three American artillery officers who were present at a special Thanksgiving service in Westminster Abbey. "King George and Queen Elizabeth are charming and delightful people," he wrote to his family at home.

1902

Emily S. Austin, better known as "Em" or "Miss Em," assistant secretary and treasurer of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, Tarboro, completed last fall 35 years of unbroken service for the company. In recognition of her services, the company honored her at a banquet in Tarboro, the latter part of August. Company officials were present, and one of the officers presided. Em, we hear, wore blue, with orchids from the company! She was of course the central figure in a gathering of more than 50 people. The general setting was the banquet room of the Baptist church, gaily decorated with chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. There were corsages for every lady, boutonniere for the men, and a grand dinner for all. Speeches of appreciation were made. But perhaps the cleverest item on the program was the following bit of verse, written by a member of the staff:

"MISS EM"

In nineteen-o-seven, not so far back,
There went to work for Mister Mac
A very young girl named Em-i-lee,
Who was just as smart as she could be.

And no matter where Mister Mac did roam,
He did not worry 'bout things back home,
Because he knew that his Miss Em
Would keep things rollin' right for him.

In twenty-six, just to make it finer,
Were joined the Home Company and the Carolina.

Miss Em's job doubled, her capacity too;
A golden checkwriter shall be due.

As time went on, so went Miss Em,
Ever on the job and always of vim;
And though she grew just a little bit stouter
O' Carolina Company couldn't do without 'er.

Through successive regimes of McCluer and Daal,

Her checkwriter blazed a welcome trail,
And though proud she is of her service pin,
Prouder still that "I've always worked for gentlemen."

Our Miss Em, in you we behold
A cultured Christian with heart of gold!
And from your fame it would not deflect,
If you would kindly sign my check.

So here we come to forty-two
And we're all mighty proud of you,
Thirty-five years, why that's just a jiffy
Please stick around 'til you make it fifty.

Among the gifts—a handsome check from the chairman of the board of directors of the company; week-end luggage, a cameo pin, fountain pen. One of the officials, in his tribute, declared that "35 years of service by anyone is unusual, 35 years of efficient service is remarkable; but 35 years of the kind of service rendered by Miss Em is phenomenal." After the banquet games were played, with war stamps as prizes for the winners, Em Austin began her business career as secretary to President Charles D. McIver. To him and to E. J. Forney she says that she owes a great debt of gratitude—to the first because he gave her a beginning opportunity; to the second because he trained her for it. In addition to her years of efficient work on the job itself, Miss Austin has found time to give of herself to other causes. She is a pillar in her church in Tarboro, and serves as its treasurer. She is a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina and a member of the Board of Trustees of the Woman's College Alumnae Association; treasurer of the Board of Trustees of the Edgecombe County Public Library, and a member of the Tarboro School Board. Her devotion to her church and Sunday School is outstanding. For many years—so many that it seems almost legendary, Miss Em has not missed Sunday School a single Sunday. If she were away from home, she would attend where she was. Her loyalty to her college has also been outstanding. She has been present at almost every commencement since her first one, and her interest is always keen in everything that tends to promote its best development.

1898

Lillie (Boney) Williams and her husband, Rev. R. Murphy Williams, remembered their friends this year with an exceptionally fine Christmas message, carrying both of their pictures—a memento that will surely be kept among their treasures by many who received them. One paragraph of the message was this: "Our manner of life is changing; our objectives are being enlarged; our tasks and our sacrifices are heavier. May we remember that God alone can enable us (those who wear the uniform and those who wait at home) to meet these war conditions with courage, candor, and insight. Thus may we be nobler sons of God and better citizens of our beloved nation in these perplexing days."

1902

Virginia Leggett, of Virginia Beach and St. Petersburg, Florida, says that for the first time in several years she is spending the winter at her old home in Scotland Neck. The Julius I. Foust Scholarship Fund is indebted to her for a generous contribution recently.

1905

To Emma (Sharpe) Avery—congratulations! She is a five-star war mother.

Her four sons are in the service in the following capacities: First Lieutenant W. M. Avery, Camp Hood, Texas, is classification officer at the tank destroyer school located there; Second Lieutenant Alphonso Avery is at Camp Butler, Durham; Ben is attending Officers Candidate School, Fort Benning, Ga.; Settle is a civilian instructor of army personnel in Baltimore, at the Glenn Martin Aircraft Corporation. Her one daughter, Emma Sharpe (Avery) Jolly is a junior executive in the Engineering Personnel Department of the Martin Aircraft Corporation. Perhaps the fact that Emma herself is a teacher of American history at the Greensboro High School may have a bearing on the patriotism of her children.

1907

Laura (Lovelace) Tomlinson's oldest daughter, Sarah Lacy, was married on November 28 to Lieutenant James Ernest Foscoe of the United States Army Air Force. Her younger daughter, Anna, is a senior at Woman's College.

1910

Laura (Weill) Cone is serving as executive director of the CDVO office, Greensboro.

Jane Summerell addressed a meeting of the Greensboro Altruus Club last fall, using letters written by famous men and women as her theme.

1913

Ruth (Bacon) Taplin has been "way down in Georgia," at Eulonia, for several months, where her husband is doing construction work in connection with the air base there. "We do not know where we shall go from here," writes Ruth, "but it is probable that we shall remain in this state."

Nell (Johnston) Toms writes that her daughter, Mary Elizabeth, is this year a senior in New Hanover High School, Wilmington.

1914

Elizabeth (Long) Jones writes at long last from Camp Rucker, Alabama, where she is hostess in No. 2 Guest House. She says, "My four boys are all in the war. The two older are in the Army—one of them is a West Point graduate; the other is attending Officers Training School. The two younger boys are in the Navy. My life has been full of travel and interesting contacts, and I am still filled with the zest for living. The days are of course full of interest and opportunity here."

Rochelle (Pippin) Strowd writes from Louisburg, where her husband is superintendent of schools. They have no children of their own, but a young niece is making her home with them.

1915

Vivian Dillon, who was a member of this class in her Freshman days, is now Junior Administrative Assistant to the Director of the Food Production Administration, Washington.

1916

Sadie (McBrayer) McCain's oldest daughter, Sarah Louise, was married last August at Sanatorium, to Numa Hill McCollum, Jr., of Leaksville. Sarah Louise is a graduate of our sister college, Agnes Scott, where Dr. J. R. McCain, her uncle, is president. But Woman's College claims her anyway as at least a near-granddaughter, since she did graduate work at the University, Chapel Hill. Her husband is also a graduate of the School of Pharmacy of the University. Annie (Beam) Funderburk and daughter Nancy were present for the wedding. As one of the district directors in the state, of the woman's organization for the sale of War Bonds and Stamps, Sadie is doing her important part to interest the women in the counties under her supervision to do their utmost to help win the war in this way.

Sadie's son, Paul Jr., is an Air Cadet at Maxwell Field.

1918

Susan (Green) Finch is a member of the Board of Trustees of High Point College.

Glady's (Murrill) Werner writes that she and her two daughters drove to Chicago last June for the graduation there of her oldest son, Charles. He is this year a student at Cornell Medical School in New York City. Gladys says it is grand to have him home for week-ends. They live on Long Island. Lee, her second son, spent last summer on a ranch in Montana, and liked it. This year he is in the Naval Air Corps. All the children were at home during the holidays.

1919

Dr. Katherine (Wilson) White went to Maryland College for Women, Lutherville, Md., in the fall of 1939 to teach English. She says it is a delightful place to be in many ways. The college is situated twelve miles north of Baltimore, in that lovely section of the state about which Lizette Woodworth Reese has written some of her most charming poems. Katherine teaches Freshmen English, English Poetry, the Novel, and American Literature.

Dr. Ezda Deviney, head of the Department of Zoology at Florida State College for Women, is doing a good deal of war work in addition to her regular professional duties. She has taken beginning and advanced First Aid and Home Nursing courses; has assisted at the Red Cross sewing room; does listening post duty; and during the summer, by way of fun, she did a little gardening for herself.

Adeleide (Van Noppen) Howard came back early in the year to live in Greensboro, near her mother, while her husband, Dr. George Howard, now Captain Howard, is serving with the armed forces. Captain Howard is a supervisor in education, and his work takes him from camp to camp all over the South. With Adeleide in Greensboro are Adeleide, Jr., a student in Curry School, Woman's College; Donnell, who was graduated from Tarboro High School last year, now taking special courses in aeronautics, physics, and math in the Greensboro High, preparatory to entering State College; and David Caldwell, also a student in Greensboro High. The oldest son, George Jr., is a sophomore, at the University, Chapel Hill.

1920

Sybil (Barrington) Corbett has a lovely new home on the Fort Bragg Boulevard, Fayetteville. She is a near neighbor of her sister, Mildred.

Janita (Kesler) Henry is this year serving as first vice president of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs. But that isn't half the story. She is director of Adult Education for the city and county schools in Rowan County; is president of the Salisbury Woman's Club; superintendent of the children's division of her local church and member of the official board of the church; member of the Altrusa Club, and of the Girl Scouts Council. Now take a long breath so that it can be added that she is also membership chairman for the Salisbury High School P.-T. A. Last, but not least, she is a homemaker, with a husband, and a 15-year-old daughter who is a senior in high school.

Nelle (Fleming) Whitley says that she is living the life of a busy mother in a small town. Her son Charles will be graduated in March as Second Lieutenant from V. P. L., Blacksburg, Va. Her daughter Nancy, eight, is described, to our delight, as a future "Woman's College girl."

Lela (Wade) Phillips is president of the Faculty Wives Club at Woman's College.

1921

Mildred (Barrington) Poole has recently moved into a handsome new home, "Woodlea," near Fayetteville. Her daughter, Cassie Ann, is a transfer student this year at Woman's College—a sophomore.

Mary (Stearns) Deck came from her home at Pelham, N. Y., to spend Thanksgiving with her daughter Jean, freshman at Woman's College.

1922

Mary York, coordinator of home economics work in the Greensboro City Schools, has recently been elected a member of the Council of Social Agencies, Greensboro.

1923

Miriam Goodwin spent a day on the campus early in January. She was from her home in Morganton, where she has been recovering from an illness, under the special supervision of her sister, Dr. Edith (Goodwin) Barbour. She is interested in a new job in religious education, or personal work, and has had fine experience in both fields.

Annie Wootton teaches English and journalism in the Reidsville High School, and incidentally is adviser for various student activities. In appreciation of her fine work, the high school students are this year dedicating to her their high school annual, Renocabi.

1924

Mary (Brannock) Blauch and her husband, Dr. L. E. Blauch, of Curry School memory for numerous Woman's College graduates, writes from Washington, D. C. They are living there now, while Dr. Blauch is doing work for the Federal Government.

Faith (Johnson) Bunn helps to manage the Rufus King Hotel at Clinton. She says she is filling all sorts of jobs in these days of labor shortage—from dietitian to clerk. In addition she is doing her quota of war work, and is chairman of the Victory Harvest Flower Show for her garden club. She is also one of the leading factors in her local church.

Elizabeth Simkins returned to her work last fall as a member of the library staff of Ohio University, at Athens. She spent the year previous studying at the University of Michigan, where she received an M.A. degree in Library Science last June.

1925

Lorena Kelly sailed from New York City on December 28, 1941, returning to her work as a missionary in Africa, under the direction of the Methodist Church. It took nearly four weeks to make the crossing. Lorena writes graphically of this ocean journey, and of the many precautions taken by the steamship company to insure the safety of the passengers. Boat drills, in case of sudden evacuation, were frequent. She kept an emergency bag packed, knowing that it might become necessary at any moment to leave the ship. But all dangers were safely passed. Lorena says she used her time on shipboard to read, to write letters, to knit, and to take lessons in French from a good teacher who happened to be crossing with them. She disembarked at Port Elizabeth the latter part of January, 1942, and left a few days later with friends and fellow missionaries, by car, for the Congo. On the way, they visited the modern African city of Johannesburg, the New York of Africa. Though only 55 years old, it has a population of 250,000. For the first time also she saw gold mines—the real thing. Lorena has the same work that she was doing before coming home on furlough—teaching in the Bible School and Normal School, and supervising the rural schools of the Wembo Nyama district, with this addition: she also has charge of the Girls' Home. "Now, besides helping to train teachers and preachers, and provide school supplies, baseballs, etc., for rural schools, I shall have to include in my thinking schedules for dates, wedding dresses, marriage ceremonies, and so on. I could hardly have an appointment with more varied interests, and surely not one which would present a greater challenge." Miss Kelly says that so far the missionaries who are still in the field have been able to carry on their program as zealously as ever. Numerous missionaries have not been able to return, and this fact adds to the work of those who are there. Many of the native young men have been called into the Army. Many natives are also being called on by the Government to gather rubber. "I thank each of you for your interest in our fine African people. As you continue to manifest that interest, may you realize increasing joy and happiness in your own hearts. And please remember that there is no better place in the world to send an occasional letter than to the heart of Africa."

Estelle Mitchell, teacher of French in the Greensboro High School, is the new president of the North Carolina Chapter of the American Association of French Teachers.

Do you happen to be on the mailing list of Maxine (Taylor) Fountain? She and her husband have a little daughter, Marcia, not yet a year old, and the three remembered their friends with unusually interesting Christmas folders. The folder included a picture of the three in today's attire, and another picture in garments of a long vanished era. You should see Marcia in her long white dress, with tucks and ruffles galore. And Dr. Fountain in spats! Their beautiful Christmas message is one to be remembered.

1926

Aylene (Edwards) Cooke writes all along from Durham, where she and her husband are now living.

Dr. Edith (Goodwin) Barbour has a thriving medical practice in Morganton, her home city. She has recently been elected county physician in Burke County, the first woman to hold that position. The Barbours have two children—J. O., Jr. 4, and Anne Goodwin 2.

Dorothy (McNair) Tyler is a popular speaker for garden clubs. During the past year or so she has filled engagements for numerous garden clubs in North Carolina—among them, the clubs of Halifax, Lexington, Burlington, Fayetteville, Goldsboro, Durham, Raleigh. She has also given programs in Danville and Richmond, Va., and has been invited to speak in Spartanburg, S. C., and Atlanta and Columbus, Ga. She has also judged flower shows in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia, and holds an accredited rating with the Garden Club of North Carolina. She is also well known for her beautiful flower arrangements.

1928

Ruth (Bellamy) Brownwood and her fine son, David 7, were visitors on the campus one day in January. They happened to be here in time to attend a faculty tea, and Ruth enjoyed seeing a number of her former teachers. They were on their way back to New York City, where Ruth works for the U. S. Navy. Both mother and son are studying the Portuguese language as part of their war effort.

Joyce Cooper, supervisor of first grade in Curry School at Woman's College, contributed an excellent article to the new quarterly, Tar Heel Elementary School Bulletin, for its first number. Her article is entitled "When Should First Grade Children Fail?"

Fanny Dunlap is the new chairman of the Anson County Alumnae Association.

Margaret (Lambe) Nichols lives in Durham, the wife of a busy doctor. They have three daughters.

1929

Grace (Hankins) Darsie is living now at Skyland, truly "in the land of the sky." They are only nine miles from Asheville, just off the Hendersonville road. Grace says they are delighted with the location. Their house faces Mt. Pisgah, and they often see gorgeous sunsets. The Darsies have a little daughter, Patricia Coleman, born last December 11. "She is still spending all of her time eating, sleeping and growing." Charles, their son, is now a big boy nearly 2½. "He is fine and healthy, normally bad at times, and always mighty interesting." Grace says she eagerly awaits the arrival of the Alumnae News each time it is due, with its wealth of news about the College and alumnae friends.

1930

Matilda (Etheridge) Inge writes from Manteo. She had recently completed five months of work as historical aide at Fort Raleigh National Historical Site. For nearly two years her husband has been stationed with the United States Engineers, St. John's, New Foundland.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Paris L. Yelton (Donnis Gold), a son, Robert William, August 14, Presbyterian Hospital, Charlotte. The Yeltons live at Shelby, Donnis says that instead of teaching French and Spanish to high school students as she has done for several years past, she is now teaching herself how to take care of one small boy, and she finds it great fun.

Frankie-Jo Mann Torpy has resigned her position as seed analyst in the Department of Agriculture, Washington—a post she has occupied for the past eleven years, now that she has a little new daughter, Lynn Ethel, in addition to a son 4. Church work, in which she and her husband both are much interested, and the Business and Professional Women's Club also claim part of her time and interest. "I am really very busy—no time for mischief!"

Frankie-Jo writes that Kathleen (New-some) Hurlbut and her husband have moved from Salt Lake City to Charlotte, where he is a pharmacist. She also tells us that Thelma (Harris) Barefoot's husband is with the United States Navy, somewhere in the Pacific.

1931

Hazel Elizabeth Bell wrote last fall from her home in Gastonia, where she is resting, following a stay of nine months in Nigeria, Africa. While there she studied the native language, preparatory to beginning missionary work for the Presbyterian Church, but had to return to the States on account of illness.

Julia (Gilliam) Gurganus writes from Massapequa Park, New York state. She has a little daughter, whom she describes as "all babies rolled into one." "We have not yet determined whom she is like, though the first time I looked at her, I thought she was a little chip off her daddy. I find it requires much less energy to raise other people's children, but it is more pleasure to have one of my own. It will be a happy day for me when I can show her Woman's College; and a still happier day yet when I receive her first message, telling me that she has lived through her first weeks there as a Freshman."

Sallie Mooring, who has been dietitian at City Memorial Hospital, in Winston-

SPORTS SKATING — OUTDOOR GYMNASIUM

Salem, for the last two or three years, went to the State Hospital, Morganton, in January, to head the work in dietetics there. Sallie left behind her an outstanding record as chairman of the Forsyth County Alumnae Association, and she will be greatly missed by the alumnae.

1932

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chandler, Jr. (Helen Kuck), a first child, a son, W. J. Chandler, Jr., October 27, City Memorial Hospital, Winston-Salem.

Mildred (Knight) Kelly, her husband and two small children, Anne Knight and William Hanes, came from their home in Scarsdale, N. Y., to spend the holidays with Mildred's people in Greensboro.

Rosalind Trent now has an M.A. degree in Educational Psychology from Duke University. She completed her work last summer. Rosalind is teaching Spanish in the George Washington High School, Danville, Va.

1933

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Crossley (Fay Dellinger '33), a daughter, Jean Dudley, August 23, Kent General Hospital, Dover, Del.

Eloise (Cobb) Harris and her young son, Michael, flew to California in January to join Eloise's husband, who has been transferred to Los Angeles from Washington.

Sibyl (Jennings) Varheis came to the University of Minnesota last fall to make a special study of Sister Kenny's technique in treating infantile paralysis. She was sent by the National Foundation to make this study. For several years Sibyl has been in Queen's Hospital, Honolulu, as chief physiotherapist. Queen's is the medical center for the nine islands. The hospital has an average of one thousand patients a month. Sibyl was in charge of the work for crippled children, and in addition taught two classes of students in training. She writes: "I left Honolulu by a Navy plane, with twenty-five pilots from the Solomon's Island area, and after eighteen hours of flying we landed in California. The trip was pleasant, except for two hours, which were a nightmare. It was good to see land again, and lights, and to have fresh food. The lights and the food impressed me more than anything else after the happenings on the island." Sibyl has been delighted with Minnesota, and is much impressed with Sister Kenny's great contribution to medical science. "I think that she is nothing less than a miracle. You would not believe the results unless you actually saw them." Sibyl was planning to leave Minnesota early in January, and to start back to Honolulu sometime during February, to remain there for the duration. She was expecting to have charge of all the "polio" cases for the Hawaiian Islands. But in case of an epidemic among the recruits in the islands of the Pacific farther south, she could not foresee where she might be sent. "I had to leave my husband, a new home, and a dog—all of which makes me eager for the war to be over so that I may return as soon as possible."

Virginia (Morgan) Dysard lives in Statesville, where she leads a busy community life in addition to being a busy homemaker. She is president of the Davie Avenue P.-T. A., secretary of the Junior D. A. R.; treasurer of the Woman's Club; and chairman of Young Peoples' Work in the Methodist Woman's Society.

Clyde Norcum is acting superintendent of public welfare for Alamance County.

Alice Virginia (Poe) Williams left Raleigh last fall to join her husband, Capt. F. Carter Williams, at West Point, where he was called by the War Department from his position at State College, to teach in the Department of Topography and Graphics. At State College, Captain Williams was an assistant in the Department of Architectural Engineering. They have one daughter.

Julia Watson's husband, Dr. Paul R. Maulden, surgeon, is this year serving as chief-of-staff of the Cabarrus Hospital in Concord, their home. The Mauldens have two children.

1934

Gloria Milton has been in New York City for the past two years, working for a real estate firm.

Catherine Taylor (Mrs. H. M. Hodges) and her husband are interned in Manila as prisoners of war. Her sister, Maxine (Taylor) Fountain '25, of Raleigh, writes that the family has very recently received this notification from the War Department in Washington, but no news was given as to their welfare. Letters may be sent to Mrs. Hodges addressed as follows: Mrs. Catherine Taylor Hodges, Civilian Internee, Manila, Philippine Islands, in care of Santo Tomas Camp, via New York, N. Y. Also mark the envelope "Prisoner of War Mail." On the reverse of the envelope, the sender must give full name and address. Maxine cautions: "Letters must be short and personal. Mention no rumors as to her whereabouts, or that of others interned in Manila. Mention no public matters. Letters will be censored both in this country and in Japan." Maxine says that she is using this method of teaching a number of Catherine's friends who have written to her for information.

1935

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus W. Bazemore (Lena B. Madry), twins—a daughter, Bernice Madry, and a son, Cyrus William, Jr., December 8, Edgewood General Hospital, Tarboro.

Mildred (Conklin) Moreland is now living in Smithfield, Va., since her husband joined the Maritime Service last fall. He is stationed at Norfolk.

Alice Marie Squires has recently accepted a new position in Philadelphia, going to it from her work on a newspaper at Port Allegany, Pa. In her new post, Alice Marie is doing secretarial work in the Christian Education Department of the American Baptist Publication Society.

1936

Born to Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hyde (Mary Louise Myrick), a son, Wilson Pennington, December 6, Watertown (Conn.) Hospital.

Betty (Griesinger) Sink is now living in Greensboro, while her husband is serving in the Navy as a Lieutenant (j.g.). They have two children, Bettina 5, and Peggy 2½.

1937

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Gehring (Doris Cockerham), a son, John Edward, November 18, Albemarle.

Patty Pittman is now assistant to Professor Homer R. Dill at the University of Iowa, teaching museum methods. She went to this position from her work as a member of the staff of the North Carolina Museum, Raleigh.

Elizabeth Westervelt is now at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, in charge of the physiotherapy courses being taught under Army supervision for special service with the United States Medical Corps.

1938

Evelyn (Kernode) Pratt lives in Durham. She has two children—son "Cappy" 2½, and daughter "Penny" 1.

Rosemary Kuhn is working for the Government in Washington.

Lorena Strohm writes that there is no new news—she is still at the same place, doing the same thing—teaching in the Brooklyn Park (Maryland) school.

Dorothy (Crech) Holt, her husband, Capt. Edwin G. Holt, and their small son, Edwin, Jr., came to Greensboro last fall for a visit with his parents here. At that time he was commander of his company and stationed with the U. S. Army at Fort McClellan, Anniston, Ala. On the same trip the Holts also went to Smithfield to visit Dorothy's people. Since then Captain Holt has been transferred to Camp Atterbury, Indiana, before going overseas. Dorothy will remain with her mother for the duration.

1939

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Davis (Margaret Minerva Coggage), a son, Samuel Dudley, October 15, 1942, Hartsville, South Carolina.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Midgett (Kathryn Hurdle), a daughter, Jo Anne, during November, Rodanthe.

Maude Elizabeth (Freeland) Dube and her husband, Aviation Cadet Bertram Dube, came to Greensboro from Coral Gables, Fla., to spend the holidays with her mother.

Margaret Greene is now overseas, working with the American Red Cross in England. She is doing recreation club work. "We try to make the club a home away from home for the men. We keep the lounges and game rooms tidy and comfortable, plan dances, quiet hours of music, and informal recreational activities. The English people have been mighty brave, and they are grand to us. I do miss my ice cream, milk and eggs, steaks and cokes. But we get plenty to eat. America hardly knows there is a war in comparison to what England is suffering."

Betty (Harward) McGlauffin is in Washington, a junior administrative assistant with the Social Security Board. From August to October last year, after her graduation from Syracuse University, Betty worked with the Army Air Corps at a bomber base in Syracuse, as chief personnel clerk. When her husband was sent to Washington, she transferred with him to her present position.

Phyllis Keister writes from Wilmington, Del., where she is a chemist in the laboratory department of the Hercules Powder Company Experiment. Phyllis says she thinks more chemistry majors should try Wilmington.

Dorothy (Kolman) Wildman writes that since her marriage she is busily occupied in learning to cook and keep house. She also assists her husband, a physician, at his two offices—one in Pittsfield, the other at New Lebanon Center, New York, where they make their home.

Vera (Leeger) Kantor is one of three psychologists on the staff of the Delaware State Hospital. The patients are all mental cases; but in the clinics, attention is given to all of the Juvenile Court cases, and to all cases which come from the prison and work houses. Sterilization cases, vocational guidance cases, school retardation, behavior problems, remedial reading, speech work, and the like, are also handled in the clinics. The out-patient clinic is the only one of its kind in Delaware. Vera says that previous to coming to this hospital, she had worked in the Vanderbilt Clinic of the Medical Center in New York City, while she was taking graduate courses, but that nowhere else could she get the variety of experience that she is finding in her present work. Her husband, a dentist, is also a member of the staff of this same hospital. He has been commissioned in the Army, but was deferred until June, since his work is considered essential in his present post. Vera says that she plans to go with him to his new assignment, and remain with him until he is sent overseas.

Lillian Mann received her M.A. degree in Education from Teachers College, Columbia University, last June.

Willie S. Pritchard is another of our alumnae who is principal of a school—the Hollister Elementary School in Northampton County. This is her third year in that capacity. In addition, she is upper grade teacher. Willie is also active in the work of the Methodist Church, as teacher of the intermediate class and member of the board of stewards. She says that she reads the Alumnae News from cover to cover, and also watches the newspapers for items about the college.

Leah Smirnov is now Mrs. N. S. Nathanson and lives in Washington City. She is still remembered on the campus for her outstanding interpretation of "Hecuba" in Trojan Women, the first Greek play to be put on by Play-Likers.

Sophia (Taplin) McClelland lives in Boston, where her husband is a radio engineer instructor of reserve officers. Two of his men were lost in the recent fire in Boston.

Beatrice Newman is doing most interesting work at the Delaware Colony for the feeble-minded, as a technician. Her husband, a dentist, is also a member of the staff.

Alice Windsor Powell is teaching math this year at Gordon Junior High School, Washington. Last year Alice taught in the Brownmoor School in far away Santa Fe, New Mexico. While there she learned to ski—a real accomplishment. "Plenty of spills, but no serious mishaps," she says. Last summer Alice worked as secretary and general assistant to the manager of the Santa Fe Inn. She says she did everything from banking the cash to rounding up horses for the guests. In the late summer, she started home, traveling up through Colorado Springs and Salt Lake City to Seattle, Washington. There she doubled back down the coast to San Diego for a visit with Charlotte (Williams) Miller '38. She crossed the country through Texas, and turned north at New Orleans, coming up through Atlanta and Greensboro to Washington. "How I did want to get off in Greensboro," she writes, "to see the College and my friends there, but that was impossible since even as it was I arrived home only the day before school opened."

1940

Evelyn Harris Brown was married last summer to Robert L. Wilson, son of Professor and Mrs. George P. Wilson, of the Woman's College faculty. The marriage took place in Ocala, Fla., where the bridegroom was stationed with the United States Army Air Force. Lieutenant Wilson is a graduate of Guilford College, where he won numerous honors.

Helen Cohen has been working with American Air Lines, Inc., for nearly two years. She is connected with the Communication's Department of Reservations, giving attention to the requests for space, and its release, to other stations of the system. Helen has recently been promoted to supervisor in training. She writes: "For women who are interested in aviation, there are now any number of jobs open in a great variety of work. Salaries are adequate, and the future unlimited. The department in which I work formerly employed men only, but the war has changed that."

Jean (Cooney) Moniot says she is doing her bit as a claims clerk with the Red Cross, at Tilton General Hospital, Fort Dix, N. J. Her husband is in the Army, and at the time Jean wrote a few weeks ago, he was awaiting transfer to the Officers Candidate School, Coast Artillery Anti-Aircraft, Camp Davis. Jean is at her old home in Trenton for the duration. She says, "I am eagerly looking forward to receiving the next number of the Alumnae News. Wouldn't miss it for anything."

Ruth Crotty writes from Brooklyn, N. Y., where for a year and a half she has been secretary to the district manager of the American Steel Band Company. Ruth says she spent a two weeks' vacation at Miami Beach recently. Like most of us, she is doing war work on the outside, and among other things is serving as an air raid warden.

Gertrude (Grimes) Webb is now in Spokane, Wash., where her husband, Lieutenant Webb, of the Army Air Forces, has recently been transferred from Sebring, Fla.

Mary Cecile Higgins is now probation clerk in the office of the United States Probation Officer, Greensboro, having been promoted to this position when the former incumbent was inducted into the Army.

Mary Louise (Gill) Lively is a junior technician with the United States Air Corps at Knollwood Field, near Southern Pines. The year after her graduation, Mary Louise had the interesting experience of serving a year as interne in Psychology at the State Hospital, Worcester, Mass. Last year she studied at the University of Minnesota, working toward a master's degree in psychology, and also serving as an assistant in that department.

Grace Evelyn Lowings is studying this year on a scholarship at Duke University, working toward a master's degree in English.

Muriel Mandell was married last September to Lieut. Morton Vogel, an alumnus of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. They are living in Tallahassee, Fla., where he is temporarily stationed at Dale Mowbray Field.

Maxie (Moore) Osborne is teaching home economics in the Rankin High School, Guilford County.

Ruby Morgan is assistant dietitian in the cafeteria of the Main Post Service Club, Fort Bragg.

Frances (Seawell) Inderfurth is now living at Drexel Hills, Pa. Her husband is stationed in the Quartermaster Depot at Philadelphia. Frances says she moves so often she feels like a gypsy!

CANOEING — ON THE CAMPUS LAKE

Mary Louise Spratt is spending this year at Boston University, completing the work for a master's degree in Social Work. She has a part-time connection with the Settlement House Division of the North Bennett Street Industrial School, located in the "Little Italy" of Boston.

Anne Tillingham came to Greensboro the first of January to serve as executive secretary of the Greensboro Travelers' Aid Society. Since her graduation, Anne has been studying at Chapel Hill, in the Department of Social Welfare. Somewhere along the way she has also worked with the Guilford County Welfare Department, the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, Raleigh, and the Cumberland County Department of Public Welfare.

Emily White is now Girl Scout Executive Secretary in Rocky Mount. For the past two and one-half years Emily has been teaching physical education in the schools of High Point. She has long been interested in Girl Scout work, and trained for scout leadership during several summers spent at Camp Edith Macy, New York.

Mozelle (Olive) Smith, who took her degree with this class in the midst of busy years of successful teaching in the Greensboro school, has two sons in the Army—First Lieutenant Robert Irvine Smith, stationed at Tilden, N. Y., and Capt. C. Hunter Smith, commanding officer of a glider school at Wickenburg, Ariz.

1941

Margaret Coit, whose home is in Massachusetts, was a visitor on the campus for a few days in November and in January. She is doing research work preparatory to writing an historical book on the South. Her research will take her into South Carolina, as well as North Carolina. Margaret was editor of the Coraddi when in college, and was also book editor of the Carolinian.

Dorothy Banks is home demonstration agent in Carteret County.

Belva (Higgins) Thompson is teaching home economics in Whiteville.

Ruth McKeithan is now Mrs. James Robert Thomason, and lives in Nashville, Tenn., where her husband is a senior in the Vanderbilt Medical College. They were married early last summer. Mr. Thomason did his undergraduate work at Presbyterian College, where he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity. He was also a member of Blue Key, president of the Junior Class and of the Y.M.C.A. Ruth taught in the schools of Kannapolis last year.

Alice Miller Madry is this year in Southern Pines, doing laboratory and X-Ray work in a doctor's office.

Dellah Siler began her work as dietitian at the Roanoke Rapids Hospital last August. She finished her internship at the Graduate Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania the last of June, and had a month's vacation before beginning her new work.

Naomi Smith recently spent a week on the campus visiting her sister a freshman here. Naomi suffered a broken back last June, but is recovering splendidly. She is spending this year at her home in Benson.

Muriel (Ward) Bennett teaches home economics at Waccamaw High School, near her home at Ash.

Betty (Rosa) Williams and her husband, Lieut. Robert E. Williams, spent part of the holidays in Greensboro with her mother, Mrs. Bess N. Rosa, of the College faculty. Lieutenant Williams is at present stationed with the Army Air Corps at Hunter Field, Savannah, Ga.

Caroline White is teaching a sixth grade in Elizabeth City. Her roommate is Josie Harding '42.

1942

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Ricketts (Cassandra Kernodle), a daughter, Cassandra Virginia, December 22, Greensboro.

Mary Alice Ader, graduate work in art, University of Iowa, Iowa City.

Margaret Willis Alexander, teaching first grade, Central School, Kings Mountain.

Christine Allen, assistant editor, Modern Miss, New York City. This is a fashion magazine, sent to 3400 home economics clothing teachers throughout the United States. Christine was promoted to this new post from assistant advertising manager of the magazine.

Neita Allen, attending business school, Henderson.

Elsie Coy Alley, home economics and Biology, Banoak School, Vale.

Ruby (Anderson) Cloninger's husband is a Captain in the Medical Air Corps. This means that until he goes overseas they will be in various parts of the country. Ruby's permanent address is with her mother, 302 Isabelle Street, Greensboro.

Sarah Anderson, commercial subjects, High Point High School.

Alice Louise Arey, social work, Mecklenburg County Welfare Department, Charlotte.

Jeanne Armstrong, music and English, Elizabeth City High School.

Mable Arney, laboratory technician, Grace Hospital, Morganton.

Marie Bailey, secretarial work, Arbutus, Maryland.

Margaret Baker, fellowship at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Carolyn Ballow, second grade, High Point schools.

Betty A. Barber, serving internship for technician, Baptist Hospital, Winston-Salem.

Sadie Barineau, eighth grade, Monticello School, Brown Summit.

Faye Barnes, secretary in construction company building Air Base, Maxton.

Margaret (Barringer) Simonson, stenographer, F. B. I., Miami, Fla.

Nancy Eva Barwick, stenographer, office of Price Administration, Raleigh.

Georgie Bell, graduate work in medical sociology, University of Pittsburgh, Penn.

Verna Frances Bell, home economics, Milton High School.

Esther Bennett spent several weeks last summer studying botany under Dr. W. C. Coker at the biological laboratory, Highlands. Last fall she was at home in Asheville, recovering from an illness.

Jean Berbert, English and journalism, Laurinburg High School. She is also serving as adviser for the school paper, The Scotchman.

Jean DeSalles Bertram, local reporter for News-Record, Greensboro.

Mary Stanley Bernard, art and biology, Bladenboro High School. Last summer Mary was arts and crafts counselor at Vade Mecum Episcopal Camp.

Blanche Berry, eighth grade, Ellerbe.

Frances Bissell, Chase National Bank, New York City.

Ruth Blackman, home economics, Bethesda High School, Durham.

Elizabeth Blauvelt, assistant in testing laboratory, Bakelite Corporation, Bloomfield, N. J.

Dorothy Blumenthal, secretary, Board of Economic Warfare, Washington, D. C.

Elsie Boger, Red Cross Home Service Secretary, Concord.

Virginia Bowden, chemist, U. S. Rubber Company, Naugatuck, Conn.

Carol Boyd, second grade, Fairview School, Winston-Salem.

Mary Gordon Breden is sponsoring the dancing club in the Kannapolis school where she teaches. She is also in charge of the Junior Red Cross, and is secretary of the P.-T.-A.

Frances Brown, fifth grade, and pianist for the grade's chapel, Goldsboro schools. Frances is also active in church work.

Lena Brown, window display and advertising, Anchor Company, Winston-Salem.

Jessie Evans Brunt, ninth grade English, Concord High School. Jessie says she is teaching in one of the finest schools in the State with "half-a-faculty of fellow W.C.-ites."

Mary Elizabeth Caldwell, graduate work in social welfare, University of North Carolina.

Elizabeth Cameron, physical education, Meredith College.

Annie Lou Chandler, analytical chemist, General Chemist Company, Pulaski, Va. Annie Lou spent two weeks in South Boston, Va., last summer.

Martha Charnock, assistant Health Education Secretary with Y. W. C. A., Minneapolis, Minn.

Deborah Chiles, sixth grade, Belmont.

Mildred Chronister, secretarial work, Charlotte.

Esther Clapp, fifth grade, Kannapolis. Last summer Esther worked with the

SUE MURCHISON, President

Joseph Ruzicka Bookbinding Company, Greensboro.

Annie Ruth Clark, home economics, Seaboard High School.

Frances Claywell, home economics, Buncombe County High School, Asheville. Martha Cloud, War Maps, T. V. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

Katherine Coan has an interesting position in the radio, television, and electronic department of General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Ellen (Cochran) Powell, is now house-keeping in Fayetteville. Her husband is with the 503rd Parachute Infantry, Fort Bragg.

Mary Lucille Cochran, mathematics, Pittsboro High School. During the summer, Lucille was employed in Belk's Department Store, Laurinburg.

Frances Elaine (Cockerham) Ashby, second grade, Mt. Airy.

Marty Cockfield, assistant nutritionist, State Board of Health, Goldsboro.

Martha Page Coleman, graduate student in social work, University of North Carolina.

Marjorie Conklin, graduate student, Columbia University, New York City.

Margaret Cooke, laboratory technician, Charlotte Memorial Hospital, Charlotte.

Dorothy Cooper, third grade, Maxton.

Lillian Cope, correspondent clerk in U. S. Treasury, Chicago. Lillian says she is working in "the world's largest office building, and it's mighty big."

Hilda Johnson Corwin, social studies, Red Oak High School.

Zabelle Corwin, ninth grade mathematics, Concord; also teaches an aviation math club.

Mary Frances Cox, graduate work, University of North Carolina.

Polly Creech, classification work in the personnel section, Office of Censorship, Washington, D. C. Polly writes of a breath-taking week-end while in New York, with Emmy Lou Wadsworth, Chris Allen and Teeny Oettinger. She also slips away now and then to nearer-by Richmond for visits with Eppie. She sees Lou Ryan and Lois Hedgepeth also, who room right next door to Eppie and are doing secretarial work in one of the big industrial plants in Richmond.

Mary Lee Daughtridge, vocational home economics, Aurora High School. "This is a 11-months job," says Mary Lee.

Nell Crumpton, home economics, Hurdle Mills.

Julia Davis, home economics, Hendersonville High School. She is also sponsor for the Junior Red Cross and Girl Scouts. Mary Katherine DeBoe, dietitian, Needham Broughton High School, Raleigh.

Gladys Dellinger, graduate student in social work, St. Louis University. She is also doing part time work at the St. Louis Y.W.C.A.

Louise (Dickens) Lankford, is now living in Boston, where her husband, Ensign W. O. Lankford, III, is in training at Harvard University.

Elizabeth duFour, taking secretarial course, Gaines School of Business Administration, New York City.

Roberta Dunlap has been at her home in Wadesboro, recuperating from an operation.

Emily Early, interviewer, U. S. Employment Service, Elizabeth City.

Cornelia Edmondson, graduate work in physical education, Flora Stone Mather College, Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio. Cornelia has a teaching fellowship, and is giving much attention to the modern dance.

Isabel Edmunds, English and social studies, Charlotte Court House, Va.

Molly Ruth Edwards, commercial subjects, Franklinton High School.

Betty Ellington, stenographer, Department of Conservation and Development, Raleigh.

Ann Elliott, graduate work in public health education, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. During the summer Ann worked as assistant dietitian, Pittman Hospital, Fayetteville.

Jean Emmons, service representative, New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, Asbury Park.

Clarice Ensley, fifth grade, Calvin Wiley School, Winston-Salem.

Mary Eppes, receptionist and secretary for a doctor, Richmond, Va.

Sarah Fleet, working on M.S. in personnel and store management, New York University.

Lula Betsy Folger, secretarial work, Holston Ordnance Works, Kingsport, Tenn.

Nell Forbes, physical education, Berea College, Berea, Ky.

Clara Forster, graduate work, N. C. State. Clara is also statistical clerk at State.

Carlyn Frank, attending Interboro Institute, New York City.

Elizabeth (Furgurson) Bain, fifth grade, Sedgfield School.

Sarah Gainey, assistant home demonstration agent, Shelby, Cleveland County.

Helen Gibbons, secretary, office of Division Auditor of Seaboard Air Line Railway, Hamlet.

Betsy Gilliam, secretary, Fairfax Hall, Waynesboro, Va.

Elizabeth Glavich, laboratory technician, Thompson Memorial Hospital, Lumberton. Elizabeth is also teaching bacteriology to the student nurses and doing relief duty in the X-Ray department.

Mary Elizabeth Goforth, graduate work in textile designing, State College, Raleigh. She expects to receive her degree next summer.

Jean Parham (Grantham) Fisher, is now keeping house in Melbourne, Fla.

Mary Moffitt Gregson, laboratory technician, Fort McPherson Station Hospital, Atlanta.

Dorothy Griffin, physical education, Sanford High School.

Margaret Griffin writes that she has been accepted in the WAVES. During the summer, she worked with the Associated Electrical Construction Company, Norfolk, Va.

Vera Grose, commercial subjects, Mocksville High School.

Ruth Helen Gunn, second grade, North Elementary School, Winston-Salem.

Carol Hall, laboratory technician, Roanoke Rapids Hospital.

Harriet Ann Hall, graduate work in elementary education, Columbia University.

Louise Hall, sixth grade, Roxboro schools.

Violet Louise Hall, secretary in personnel office of the Calvert Distilling Company, Relay, Md.

Doris Hamlin, first grade, Franklinville. Doris spent the summer at her home in Winston-Salem and at Carolina Beach.

OFFICERS OF CLASS OF 1942

DORA WILSON, Vice President

MARY EPPES, Secretary

ERNESTINE OETTINGER, Treasurer

FRANCES HENRY, Cheerleader

Josie Harding, commercial subjects and English, Elizabeth City High.

Mattie Lou Hardy, third grade, Hemp. Elizabeth Harrell, graduate student in social work, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Katherine Hawes, junior clerk, U. S. Army Engineers, Cost Section, Custom-house, Wilmington.

Margaret Haynes, admitting officer, Duke University Hospital, Durham.

Lois Hedgepeth, secretarial work, Selective Service Board, Richmond, Va.

Ruth Heffner, graduate work in English, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Ruth was awarded a scholarship in the English Department.

Frances Henning, junior draftsman, Carolina Aluminum Company, Badin.

Helen Higdon, assistant home demonstration agent, Bryson City, Swain County.

Frances High, mathematics, Weldon High School.

Flayree Hill, commercial subjects, Forest City High.

Annis (Hines) Hook and her husband spent the holidays in Greensboro visiting their respective families. Dr. Hook is a member of the faculty of State College, and is, incidentally, a son of Dr. Hook, a member of the Woman's College faculty, in the department of Romance Languages.

Lula F. Hinton, third grade, North Wilkesboro.

Ernestine Hobbs, first grade, Winston-Salem schools.

Hilda Blanchard (Hollis) Roy's husband is in the Army, and she is first at one place, and then another. Her permanent address is Concord, Mass.

Eleanora House, secretarial work, Headquarters 76th Observation Group, Fort Bragg.

Louise Howard, home economics, Anderson School, Burlington.

Nancy Howell, clerical work, Seaboard Air Line, Hamlet.

Georgie P. Hughes, employed at Marine Air Base, Cherry Point.

Sarah Jane Hunter, graduate work, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Evelyn Dean Hurwitz, accompanist for all modern dance work at Woman's College. She is also assistant with the music for Play-Likers—background and incidental music; also original composition when necessary.

Jane Huskett, secretary to Assistant Director of the Division of Purchase and Contract, Raleigh.

Claire Hyman, stenographer, Hyman's Furniture Company, Greensboro.

Mary Elizabeth Ingram, vocational home economics, Mayodan High.

Helen (Johnson) Frank, health food demonstrator and diet consultant in a department store, Portland, Ore.

Marjorie (Johnson) Johnson, English and library science, Mount Pleasant High School.

Edna Ruth Jones, graduate work, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Virginia Gray Jones, student dietitian, Vanderbilt University Hospital, Nashville, Tenn.

Sallye Josey writes from Wilmington, North Carolina.

Amy Joslyn, music, Timberlake. During the summer, Amy worked in a railroad office at Beaufort.

Elizabeth Jung, civil service employe at Norfolk Navy Yard. Elizabeth studied at Yale University last summer.

Alberta (Keck) Ellington, secretarial work, Station Hospital, Camp Forrest, Tenn., where her husband was stationed.

Ruth Keith wrote from New York several weeks ago that she was awaiting a civil service appointment for personnel work in Washington, and was spending the intervening time doing volunteer Red Cross work, and learning the subways of New York City.

Etta Bell Kelly, art and physical education, eighth grade, Tabor City.

Nancy Dixon King, private piano, Monticello.

Nancy Jane King, commercial subjects, Siler City High School.

Betty Jean Knofsky, graduate work, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Faye Kornegay, second grade, Norwood.

Norma Doris Large, algebra and history, Ahoskie.

Lillian Layne, physical education, Charlotte Court House, Va.

Frances Lee, secretary, North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Raleigh.

Annamarie Lehndorff, assistant in the Department of Psychology, Indiana University, Bloomington. Annamarie is working toward her master's degree there.

Ruth Leonard, physical education, Alexander Graham, Jr., High, Charlotte. Virginia Lisk, sociology, American History, North Carolina History, Bible, Candor High School.

Dorrie Litchfield, physical education, Limestone College, Gaffney, S. C.

Maida Lollar, commercial subjects, Lowell High.

Virginia Lyerly, supervisor and dietitian, Y.W.C.A. Cafeteria, Austin, Texas.

Dorothy McBride, physical education and health, Thomasville High School. Carolyn McBryde, seventh grade, Mount Olive.

Carey McDonald, home economics, Laurel Hill High.

Dorothy McDuffie, junior Historical Aide, Department of the Interior, U. S. Government, Washington.

Eloise McGhee, commercial subjects, Mount Pleasant High.

Jane Elizabeth (McGlammery) Boddie is living in Lenoir.

Marietta McLennan, first grade, Leaksville.

Mary White McNeely, production control clerk, Coolemece.

Virginia McNeely, home economics, Rockwell.

Mary Kathryn MacQueen, home economics and biology, Millbrook High.

Mary Lou Mackie, editorial clerk, National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, Langley Field, Va.

Jeanne Malin, graduate work in education, on Weil Fellowship, Columbia University, New York City. Jeanne says she is also working in the registrar's office, but she doesn't put it ahead of the "good alumnae office" at Woman's College, where she worked all four of her college years.

Helen Jane (Malone) Campbell, payroll clerk, A. B. Midini Sheet Metal Company, Air Corps Technical School, Goldsboro.

Theo Roberts writes from New York City, giving a graphic account of the ups and downs of getting a job you really want while waiting for a West Point Cadet to graduate! Theo says she went to Washington after graduation last June where she got a job as proofing clerk with the Federal Housing Administration. This she held tightly clutched until the first of October, when she went back to New York to be with her mother for fear she wouldn't be able to stand the hustle around Washington very long! Then she almost literally fell into a good job with the Pennsylvania Railroad. "It is a filling job in the Passenger Traffic Department, and pays a salary of some size. I was very much amazed both at the salary and that I got the job. You'd never think a psychology major would end up filling—or would you?" But the filing job is scheduled to come to an end next June, when Theo and her cadet are to be married. And by the way, he is a North Carolinian.

THE FINAL PUTT — Keep Calm

MARRIED

Penelope Davis '99 to Robert Spencer Plummer, December 26, 1942. At home 124 Hillcrest Road, Raleigh.

Margaret Knox Gilbert '27 to John Joseph Oros, Jr., December 24, the Post Chapel, Camp Davis, Holly Ridge. The bridegroom is attending Officer Candidate School at Camp Davis and will receive his commission in February. At home there, where the bride is librarian for Camp Davis.

Isabel Young Hoey, class of 1928, to Lt. Daniel M. Paul, November 2, 1943, Central Methodist Church, Shelby. Lieutenant Paul is a graduate of State College. He served as Alumni Secretary at State College before entering the United States Naval Reserve.

Ensign Louise Elizabeth Nash '34 to Lt. Lewis Howard Dorsett, January 4, New York City. The bridegroom is a graduate of Duke University and prior to his army induction, he was associated with North Carolina Department of Revenue. The bride has returned to her duties in the Navy Department, Washington, where she will remain until Lt. Dorsett's present assignment is completed.

Ernestine Sherwin '34 to Ralph Rowland Spillman, December 20, West Market Street Methodist Church, Greensboro. Dorothy Sherwin '37 was her sister's only attendant. The bridegroom is a graduate of Guilford College, and did graduate work at the University of North Carolina. At home Lyndhurst, Va., where Mr. Spillman is engaged in civilian military service.

Lorraine Bowden '35 to R. Roy Redden, November 26, home of the bride's parents, Mocksville. Mr. Redden attended Murray Junior College, Detroit Teachers College, and the University of Detroit, where he was awarded a degree in business administration. He is a member of the Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity, and for the past nine years has been in business at Winston-Salem. At home, Salisbury.

Helen Elizabeth Dugan '35 to Ensign Ernest Marvin Allen, Jr., November 7, Seattle, Washington.

May Lattimore, Com. '35, to William Glenn Adams, January 22, First Baptist Church, Shelby. The bridegroom is connected with Newman Machine Company. At home Greensboro. Mrs. Adams is secretary to Dean Harriet Elliott, and is continuing her work in that office.

Sophia Martin Hinton '36 to William Frank Ashburn, December 25, Cawn Memorial Presbyterian Church, Elizabeth City. The bridegroom is an alumnus of Wake Forest College and is connected with Tidewater Construction Company.

Mildred Hellen '37 to Pvt. Lee Blackwelder, November 20, Methodist Church, Granite Falls. Pvt. Blackwelder is now serving in the Army, stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss. Mildred resumed her teaching in the Concord schools.

Lenore Swain '37 to Henry M. Cox, November 26, West Market Street Methodist Church, Greensboro. Mr. Cox is connected with the W. H. Best Company, Goldsboro, where they are at home.

Marie Hedgpeh '38 to Lt. Herbert R. Scull, U. S. Army, November 15, St. John's Episcopal Church, Brownwood, Texas. Lt. Scull is a graduate of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and holds a master's degree from the Graduate School of Business Administration, New York University. He belongs to Delta Phi fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega, and Phi Gamma Nu honorary orders, and prior to his Army service was a partner with E. H. Scull and Company, New York and Chicago. He received his commission from the Army Finance School, Duke University, and is now stationed at Stinson Field, Brownwood, Texas. At home here.

Frances Elizabeth Judd '38 to Frederick Gustave Muhlsteff, November 28, Methodist Church, Fuquay Springs. The bridegroom is a graduate of Cooper Union College, New York City, and is connected with Burlington Mills Corporation, Greensboro. At home Greensboro.

Evelyn Poliakov '38 to Lt. Louis A. Diamond, July 15, Columbia, South Carolina. The bridegroom is an alumnus of New York University. He has been stationed at Camp Forrest, Tenn.

Hannah Kincaid Steele '38 to Maj. Eugene Bronson Brownell, November 28, First Presbyterian Church, Statesville. Maj. Brownell is a graduate of the University of Washington, and received his

MONTALDO'S

This time of year when you want a change from winter doldrums
a new spring dress,
suit or coat is exactly
what your spirit needs

...

Montaldo's spring collection includes all of these, each done along the satisfying lines that you will wear for a welcome change master's degree in Business Administration from Harvard Business School. He is a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity. Before entering the Army, Maj. Brownell was connected with the business loan division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. At present he is stationed in Washington, D. C., in the small arms ammunition division of the Ordnance Department. At home Washington.

Dorothy Kolman '39 to Dr. C. J. Wildman, November 8. Dr. Wildman was graduated from the University of Vienna in 1937 and has been in this country since September, 1938. At home New Lebanon Center, N. Y.

Lena Eloise McLean '39 to Sgt. Edward Lee Oliver, December 19, First Presbyterian Church, Greensboro. Sgt. Oliver attended the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and Appalachian State Teachers College, Boone. At present he is with the Army Air Forces, Moore Field, Texas, as a recreation director. Prior to his Army duties, he was connected with the Imperial Life Insurance Company, and served as recreation director in Greensboro. At home McAllen, Texas.

Mary Elizabeth Cochrane '39 to Frank Long Austin, December 10, Centenary Methodist Church, Richmond, Va. Mr. Austin is an alumnus of Duke University and of Erskine College. Before entering the Navy, he was a member of the Concord High School faculty. The bride has resumed her teaching at Concord High School, while the bridegroom has reported for sea duty with the United States Naval Reserve.

Jane Grier '39 to Herbert Hawthorne, November 24, First Presbyterian Church, Statesville. The bridegroom is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina and of the Indiana School of Engineering, Indianapolis. He is a member of the North Carolina highway patrol. At home Statesville.

Helen Ida Kirk '39 to James Allen Graham, October 30, Stallings Memorial Baptist Church, Salisbury. The bridegroom is a graduate of State College, Raleigh, and a member of Alpha Lambda Tau fraternity. He teaches agriculture at Celeste Henkel High School, near Statesville. At home there.

Wilma Levine '39 to Harry Mitchell, fall of 1942. At home Brooklyn, N. Y.

Grace Mewborn '39 to William Brantley Aycock. At home Anniston, Ala.

Margaret Evelyn Shepherd '39 to Lt. Roy Dwight Apple, United States Army,

READY FOR A MORNING RIDE

August 18, First Lutheran Church, Greensboro. Before entering the Army, the bridegroom was employed by T. L. Matlock, accountants. They are temporarily at home at Clarksville, Tenn., where Lt. Apple is now stationed.

Olena Swain '39 to Falk Elmo Bunn, Jr., October 31, First Methodist Church, Williamston. The bridegroom is a graduate of Wake Forest Law School, and is now located with the Army Air Forces, George Field, Ill. At home Vincennes, Ind.

Mary Evelyn Ayscue '40 to Robert William Rupp, December 12, First Baptist Church, Lawrenceburg, Ind. At home Lawrenceburg.

Katherine Brown '40 to James Gordon Eaves, December 12, Bethel Methodist Church, near Concord. The bridegroom is an alumnus of Pfeiffer Junior College and Anderson Aircraft School, Nashville, Tenn. He is associated with Glenn L. Martin Company, Baltimore. At home Middle River, Md.

Edith Daniel '40 to Roy Barrow, March 7, 1942. The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina Teachers College. Before entering service, he taught in the Elm City High School. Since August he has been stationed at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey, with the Army Signal Corps. He is now an instructor in Elements of Radio. Edith continues to teach in the Elm City High School.

Katherine Rebecca Griffin '40 to Joseph Ovander Taylor, October 24, Steele Street

Methodist Church, Sanford. Lucille Griffin '41 and Elizabeth White '40 were among the wedding attendants. The bridegroom is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina. He is connected with Edwards Company, Sanford, where they are at home.

Lena Blue McFadyen '40 to Myron Pratt, December 24, home of the bride's parents, Raeford. The bridegroom is an alumnus of State College, and will receive his commission as lieutenant in the United States Army this spring.

Lynette Swain Moss '40 to Fred E. Boettner, November 21, First Methodist Church, Wilson. Margaret Wyatte '40 was a bridesmaid. The bridegroom is a graduate of Carthage College, Carthage, Ill. He did graduate work at Tulane University, and is now research chemist with Monsanto, Anniston, Ala., where they are at home. The bride is a daughter of Lynette (Swain) Moss '15.

Valeria Elizabeth Powell '40 to Lt. Louis McKnight Jones, U. S. Army Air Corps, August 4, First Methodist Church, Atlanta, Georgia. Lt. Jones is a graduate of the School of Commerce, and of the School of Law, Tulane University. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta, social fraternity, and Phi Delta Phi, honorary legal fraternity. He is now overseas. Val has resumed her work in the department of physical education, Sophie Newcomb College, New Orleans.

Edna Suitz '40 to John E. O'Neill Jr., December 22, home of the bride's parents,

DO THIS FOR

Night Coughing

WHEN A COLD stuffs up the nose, causes mouth breathing, throat tickle and night coughing, use this time-tested Vicks treatment that goes to work instantly... 2 ways at once!

At bedtime rub good old Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest and back. Then watch its PENETRATING-STIMULATING action bring relief from distress.

It PENETRATES to upper breathing passages with soothing medicinal vapors. It STIMULATES chest and back surfaces like a warming, comforting poultice... and it keeps on working for hours, even while you sleep—to ease coughing spasms, relieve muscular soreness and tightness—and bring grand comfort! Try it tonight... Vicks VapoRub.

Hillsboro. Mary Elizabeth Sutt '39 was maid of honor. The bridegroom is a graduate of Wake Forest College, where he was a member of Delta Sigma Chi and Kappa Phi Kappa fraternities. Until Mr. O'Neill reports in February to Officers Candidate School, New London, Conn., he will continue to serve as a teacher in the city schools of Durham, where they are at home.

Jeanette Forbes Thornton '40 to William B. Boles, January 17. Dunn Presbyterian Church, Dunn. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and holds a position in the Auditing Department of The North Carolina Shipbuilding Company, Wilmington. At home Wilmington.

Margaret Elizabeth Toler '40 to William Mannes Munn, December 22. Thorpe Memorial Chapel of First Presbyterian Church, Rocky Mount. Prior to his induction into the Army, the bridegroom was a member of the staff of Planters National Bank and Trust Company, Rocky Mount. Margaret continues her work as a teacher in the Roanoke Rapids Schools.

Christine Jefferys Wimbish '40 to Lenton Orlando Rowland, June 27. First Presbyterian Church, Clarksville, Va. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and is employed by the United States Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation. At home Soudan, Va.

Minnie McMullan Winslow '40 to Thomas Joseph McCrary Jr., of the U. S. Coast Guards, November 22. Coral Gables Methodist Church, Coral Gables, Fla. Before entering the Navy, the bridegroom was engaged in sailing his yacht "Isem" from New York to the Caribbean and along the coast of South America, taking photographs for commercial distribution. He is now stationed at Miami, where he and his bride are at home.

Louise Frances Alexander '41 to William Thomas Berkeley Jr., December 19. First Presbyterian Church, Durham. The bridegroom is a graduate of Duke University, and is now in the fourth year medical school of Georgetown University.

Blanche Melinda Campbell '41 to Rev. C. W. White, December 25. Bellevue Baptist Church, Memphis, Tenn. The bridegroom is an alumnus of Campbell Junior College, West State College, and Southwestern Seminary. The bride has returned to Greensboro to continue her work in the office of W. Koury Company. Mr. White has returned to his work as assistant pastor of First Baptist Church, Canyon, Texas, and also to his student work at West State College.

Margaret Lee Fordham '41 to George

P. Wilson Jr., December 19. New Orleans, La. The bridegroom is a graduate of Guilford College and did graduate work at the University of North Carolina. Before going to Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, as instructor in speech and radio, he was connected with station WBIG, Greensboro. The bride has resumed her teaching at Lindley Junior High School, Greensboro; the bridegroom remains in Louisiana.

Anna Mae Hatcher '41 to Cpl. James Robert Dawson, December 19, home of the bride's parents, High Point. Cpl. Dawson is a graduate of the University of Illinois, and before entering the Army last year, was in the staff of Hybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery, certified public accountants. At home Fayetteville.

Eugenia Kearns '41 to Clark Harrison Kirkman Jr., December 19, home of the bride's uncle, Cedar Falls, N. C. The bridegroom is a graduate of State College, and is now assistant county agent for Jackson County.

Millicent Miller '41 to Sgt. C. D. Benbow III, December 5. Lincoln Chapel, New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C. Sgt. Benbow has returned to Fort Ord, California, where he is now stationed. He expects assignment to Officer Candidate School soon. The bride has resumed her work in a government bureau, Washington. She expects to join Sgt. Benbow when he is stationed.

Ada Sorrell Page '41 to William Ernest Ormond Jr., January 30. First Baptist Church, Henderson. The bridegroom is engaged in war work in Baltimore, Md.

Doris Jeanette Shaffer '41 to George Alexander Gray Jr., United States Army Air Corps, January 5. First Presbyterian Church, Washington. Peggy Shaffer '46 was a wedding attendant. The bridegroom is an alumnus of McCallie School, Chattanooga, Tenn., and of Davidson College. Before enlisting in the Air Corps he was connected with the family manufacturing business in Gastonia. He is temporarily stationed at Camden, S. C., where they are at home.

Alice M. Peters '41 to Stuart MacMakin, October 3. Friends Meeting House, Worcester, Mass. The bridegroom is a graduate of Dartmouth College and also holds a law degree from Cornell University. He is associated with the law firm of Cadwalader, Wickersham and Taft, New York City. At home Jackson Heights, Long Island.

Gladys Utterman Stedman '41 to Ensign Robert Thomas Joyner Jr., December 26. Trinity Cathedral, Arlington, N. J. The bridegroom is a graduate of Woodberry Forest and of the University of Virginia. He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma. Ensign Joyner has been stationed at Norfolk, Va., where they are temporarily at home.

June Almond '42 to John Lewis, September 5. At home Charlotte.

Edith Barnes '42 to W. M. Howard Jr. At home Elm City.

Laura Brown '42 to Hazel I. Quinn June 5, 1941. First Presbyterian Church, Greensboro. Lieutenant Quinn is now stationed in Waukeeah, Fla., with the Air Corps. Laura is temporarily at her home in Greensboro.

Alice Jean Finch '42 to Lt. Edward

Compliments of

F. W. Woolworth Co.

To the Students and Faculty of W. C. U. N. C.

We certainly appreciate the business extended to us in the past and sincerely hope that we may serve you in a most satisfactory manner in the future.

THE PERSONNEL OF

Montgomery Ward

Help Win the War

By economizing. Bring your old shoes to

WALTON'S COLLEGE SHOP

to be repaired the right way

*Satisfaction
Guaranteed*

409 Tate St.

Greensboro, N. C.

FRANKLIN STUDIOS

Creators of Fine Portraiture

Phone 5313

123 South Elm Street
Greensboro, N. C.

Hamrick Swan, U. S. Calvary, December 18, Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, Ga. Mary Moffitt Gregson '42 was maid of honor. Lt. Swan is an alumnus of Brevard College, and before enlisting in the Army he was connected with General Foods Company. He is now stationed at Camp Polk. At home Leesville, La.

Nanearle Harkey '42 to Lt. John C. Maddox, United States Army, December 10. At home New Orleans, La.

Virginia Belle Harrelson '42 to DeRoy

Ransom Fonville Jr., October 24. First Methodist Church, Fayetteville. The bridegroom is a graduate of Elon College, where he was a member of Kappa Psi Nu Fraternity. Since his graduation he has studied aeronautics. At home temporarily Atlanta, Ga.

Donna Howell '42 to Julius Belvin Patrick, July 31, Presbyterian Church, Hamlet. At home Hamlet.

Nancy Scott Howell '42 to Charles Robert Robertson, December 10, Presbyterian Manse, Hamlet. At home Hamlet. Helen Johnson '42 to Cpl. Leonard E. Frank, July 1, the Post Chapel, Camp Shelby, Miss. The bride is at home, Portland, Ore. The bridegroom is temporarily stationed at Fort Sill, Okla.

Alberta Keck '42 to Carroll M. Ellington, December 25, Macon, Ga. The bridegroom is stationed at Camp Forrest, Tenn., where they are at home.

Katherine Killebrew '42 to H. F. Lorenz. At home Monroe, La.

Jean Patterson Mason '42 to Ensign Thomas Howerton Vanderford, Naval Air Corps, November 8. St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Salisbury. Ensign Vanderford is an alumnus of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, and of the University of Missouri, St. Louis. Until entrance into military service, he was connected with the Philip Carey Company, Greensboro. At home Jacksonville, Fla.

Ruth Rhyne '42 to Herbert H. Hoover, August 29. At home Hampton, Va.

Betty Ann Smith '42 to Lt. Orland Middleton Parke, August 22, Austin, Texas. At home Austin.

HOME OF SOCIETY PINS

207 South Elm

Phone 2 0044

Shop at Sears and Save
Sears Roebuck & Co.

DIAL 5161

YELLOW TAXI CO.

1 passenger in City, 35c; 2 to 5 passengers, 50c.

24 Hour Service Since 1924

New Equipment Experienced Drivers

CHARLES

Greensboro's Fastest Growing
Department Store

FRIENDLY SERVICE
QUALITY MERCHANDISE
FAIR PRICES

We invite your patronage

240 S. ELM ST.

GREENSBORO, N. C.

IN MEMORIAM

Class of 1915

Carey Wilson (Mrs. G. W. Taylor), Mooresville, died on January 29. She is survived by her husband, a son, and two daughters. Once she wrote: "I have been too happily occupied with raising babies and making a home for a busy physician to do anything spectacular." Those who came within the charmed circle of her lovely home know how real was her success in this her first and chief concern. Carey was active, however, in the work of the Presbyterian church, in which she held various offices, as well as in the P.-T. A. She enjoyed a book and study club, gave freely of her time and effort in the promotion of a local library, and on occasions did settlement work at the local cotton mills. She was lovely and gracious in all her ways, a loyal and steadfast friend, a lovable and beloved personality.

Class of 1921

Ruth Allison (Mrs. John Morris) died on November 13, following an operation. She lived at Webster, N. C. Her husband, two sons and a daughter survive. Ruth's leadership on the campus as a student foreshadowed her leadership in the years that followed. For several years previous to her marriage, she taught with notable success in the schools of the state, and had resumed her profession shortly before her death. She had held several official positions in the Methodist Church, had been president of the local chapter of the U.D.C., and was a moving force in all community work. The Twentieth Century Club, of Sylva, which she had served as president, has established a loan fund of $75 in her memory at Western Carolina Teachers College.

We extend deepest sympathy:

To May Lovelace Tomlinson '07 and her daughter, Anna '43, in the death of their husband and father, Mr. C. F. Tomlinson, January 28, in High Point, suddenly, while presiding over a meeting of the Board of Directors of the High Point, Thomasville, and Denton Railroad, of which he was president. Although he was connected with a large number of business interests, Mr. Tomlinson was most closely identified with the firm of TOMLINSON, nationally known manufacturers of beautiful furniture. It was to the development of this great industry that he contributed largely the qualities of a superior mind and personality. Indeed it would be difficult to evaluate his part in the development of the industrial South, as well as his contribution to the national picture in the industry he represented. Almost paralleling his interest in his own profession, was his devotion to education and the work of the church. Following his graduation from the University of North Carolina, with high scholastic honors, he was for eight years principal and superintendent of the Winston-Salem schools. For twenty-three years he served as chairman of the school commissioners of the High Point City schools, and these schools were closed on the day of his funeral in respect to his memory. He sleeps at Springfield Friends Church, which was founded by his forebears.

His son Charles is now serving with the Armed Forces, overseas. The oldest daughter, Sarah Lucy, is the wife of a Lieutenant in the Army Air Corps.

To Annie Moore Cherry '12, Ernestine Cherry '15, Martha Rob Cherry '43 and Billie Cherry '46, in the death of their brother and father, on December 6, Scotland Neck; and of their sister-in-law and mother, shortly afterwards, on January 31.

To Gertrude (Shepard) Smith '25, of Greensboro, in the sudden death of her husband, M. B. Smith Jr., on January 23, following a heart attack. He was in Florida at the time. Mr. Smith was president of Liberty Hosiery Mills, Inc. He was a former vice-president of Burlington Mills Corporation.

To Matilda (Etheridge) Inge '30 in the death of her only brother, who was lost at sea last September in the course of his duty with the Merchant Marine.

NECROLOGY

TASTE-TEST WINNER

FROM COAST TO COAST

ROYAL CROWN COLA

2 full glasses

5¢

Greensboro NEHI Bottling Co.

825 Battleground Ave.

Phone 9S24

GREETINGS

MANUEL'S
RESTAURANT

"We Serve the Very Best"

Special attention to college always

SILLS
IS the WORD FOR SHOES
IN GREENSBORO

SILVER'S

5-10 and $1.00 Store

College Girls

always welcome at Silver's

Dial 8193 and let

The Columbia Laundry
do it.

Launderers and Dry Cleaners
Battleground Ave. at Cedar St.

The College Girl's Favorite Store for

QUALITY
CLOTHES

Ellis Stone & Co

THE GRILL

407 Tate St.

Phones 7306-9465

DICK'S LAUNDRY
COMPANY

Launderers and Dry Cleaners

GREENSBORO, N. C.

PHIL R. CARLTON, Inc.

Real Estate - Rents - Bonding

INSURANCE

Carlton Building, Opposite Courthouse

Dial 8157

UNION BUS STATION

Phone 6151

BLUE BIRD TAXI

1 passenger, 35c; 2 to 5 passengers, 50c.
25c each stop for not more than 5 minutes' duration.

Anywhere in the City Limits

DIAL

5 1 1 2

BAGGAGE TRANSFER

E. A. WOODELL

Service Printer

Successor to "Kendall"

221 East Sycamore St. Greensboro, N. C.

The Mecca

"Greensboro's Most Popular"
RESTAURANT

228 West Market Street

COMPLIMENTS OF
GREENSBORO BOWLING CENTER

We welcome the faculty and student body

Phone 8046

341 North Elm St.

VISIT
BELK'S

Junior and College Miss
Department

EVERYTHING
FOR THE College Girl

READY-TO-WEAR
SECOND FLOOR

BELK'S

Protect Your Paint

—and your best insurance is
DEVOE PAINTS

Featuring the
2-COAT SYSTEM

This Devoe 2-Coat System doesn't try to saddle or shirk. There are two definite jobs for outside paint to do, and Devoe does them. Each coat does its specific work. The first coat locks the pores of the wood like iron, seals it against sucking up life-giving oils. The second coat is built to laugh off ultra-violet sun rays and weather, still sparkles after several years.

PAINTS FOR INTERIORS

KEARNS PAINT CO., Inc.

Greensboro, N. C.
112 N. Greene St.—Phone 4171

SPORTING GOODS
WALLPAPER

Jos. J. Stone
& Company

• •

Printers and Bookbinders

• •

Everything for the Office

• •

225 South Davie Street
Greensboro, N. C.

Flatter Your Legs !!

Be Nice to Your Budget with

MOJUD

The Dependable Hosiery!

Sheer . . . Clear . . . a flawless veil of smart new color. Dear? . . . goodness, no! Mojuds look fragile, but they last and last. They're an investment in chic you ought to make. The newest colors are in now.

GREENSBORO, N. C.
CHICAGO, ILL.

SILER CITY, N. C.
DECATUR, ALA.

NEW YORK CITY
SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Mock, Judson, Voehringer Co.